Horses Frighten As They Start Through Gate;
Rites Sunday

Raymond D. Caloway, 54, unmarried Perry Township farm hand, was fatally injured Friday when he was crushed under the wheel of a wagon on the Parker farm near New Holland.

Mr. Caloway was injured at 3 p. m. and died three hours later at his home where he was taken after the mishap. It was believed at first that his injury was not serious, but later examination disclosed that his chest was caved in and a lung punctured.

He was helping thresh at the time of the mishap, his job being to haul wheat. He left the wagon to open a gate to pass from one field to another and as the team started through the gate it became frightened, knocked him to the ground, and the heavy wagon passed over him.

Mr. Caloway made his home with his brother, Richard, and sister, Lilly.

The funeral will be at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the New Holland Church of Christ, the Rev. C. L. George officiating with burial in New Holland Cemetery by Kirkpatrick and Sons.

PORTSMOUTH, July 20—William David Clifford, 18, of Portsmouth, was dead today, the victim of a "step off" in the Scioto River near his home. The youth, not a good swimmer, drowned after several friends attempted to reach his side.

COLUMBUS, July 20—Injuries received when his motorcycle skidded out of control last night just north of Columbus had proven fatal today to Ralph Nicodemus, 26.

CINCINNATI, July 20—The dangerous Little Miami River had claimed another victim today. Eight-year-old Leslie Schulte drowned when bathing with two playmates.

HITLER AWAITS VOICE OF BRITISH PEOPLE

BERLIN, July 20—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler is waiting to hear the "voice of England" regarding acceptance or rejection of his final peace offer before attacking Great Britain with "terror to millions," it was understood on reliable authority today.

Definite indications that the Fuehrer hopes that the British people will speak over the heads of their government were forthcoming. But well-informed quarters allowed a margin of only days instead of weeks before the final phase of Europe's war begins with a "blitzkrieg" onslaught against the heart of the British Empire.

German spokesmen constantly reiterated the phrase "the next days" in discussing the time when the Fuehrer will launch the attack which he himself predicted before the Reichstag yesterday would result in complete annihilation of either Britain or Germany. He expressed certainty, of course, that Britain would be the loser.

Up To Hitler Alone
It was made emphatically clear that the decision for continued war or peace will be made by Hitler alone. It will be based, spokesmen said, on "authentic information and reaction from England."

In this connection, authentic quarters rejected the initial British reaction as "hasty, made to order and not representative of the voice of the English people." Hitler will await "concrete, factual evidence" that the war must continue, it was said.

But it was apparent the Fuehrer expects to have his answer by next week at the latest. If by that time he is convinced Britain—or the British people—still want to fight, the battle will begin.

No stone will be left unturned and no effort spared, it was said to acquaint every last Englishman with the text and tenor of Hitler's peace appeal. It will be repeated hour after hour and day after day by German broadcasting stations until the Fuehrer is convinced all Britons have heard it and have been given an opportunity to express their true desires.

If Hitler finally decides that the British have no wish for a bloodless peace, the button will be pushed to set in motion what military quarters described as "the greatest blitz assault by land, sea and air that any country has ever witnessed."

Vast Forces Ready
Since June 24, it was said, all German preparations have been concentrated on the British attack, with vast modern weapons assembled and plans completed for "the greatest surprise in methods and weapons that the world has ever seen."

Some German quarters said that Hitler's speech might have a deeper effect on England after the latter has had "some of its teeth knocked out."

"It is doubtful," a Wilhelmstrasse spokesman said, "whether we have heard the real voice of England thus far. What has come from London sounds like the old terms from the plutocratic clique which feels it must talk loudly lest someone else be heard."

Reuter's (British news agency) comments from various world capitals sound as though they were made to order in advance. The next days will show the answer of real England."

Hitler was busy with a final deck-clearing today. He conferred with Count Galeazzo Ciano, the Italian foreign minister who is returning to Rome tonight, and received the new diplomatic envoys from Chile and Romania as well as army leaders.

LONDON, July 20—A cold hostility unparalleled since the start of the war today featured the British public's reaction to Chancellor Hitler's "make peace or perish" speech, as the London press reached a new high in assailing the Fuehrer's "effrontery."

While the government made no official statement, it was understood the cabinet ministers were carefully studying the text of the address to ascertain whether any parliamentary answer is necessary. It was considered possible Prime Minister Winston Churchill might deliver a reply before the House of Commons next Tuesday.

And the nature of any such reply is a "foregone conclusion." The Daily Telegraph, considered close to the British foreign office, keynoted the press reaction by stating:

"The speech merely encourages and fortifies us in our inflexible resolve to blot Hitler out of Europe. We are in no doubt as to who will be destroyed."

The Daily Express carried the headline: "One Must Die—Britain or Germany."

The London Times stressed Hitler's emphasis on the prospect that the war will be lengthy.

President Quoted

Wickham Steed, British Broadcasting Corporation commentator, quoted an excerpt from President Roosevelt's acceptance speech to describe Hitler's peace appeal.

"Though it was used exactly 72 hours before Hitler spoke, it defined very aptly the character of Hitler's peace appeal," Steed declared. "The President spoke of the 'false lullaby of appeasement.'"

LONDON, July 20—British fighter planes and anti-aircraft batteries were very busy this morning in southeast Scotland, where a German air raider dropped high explosive bombs near two towns.

The explosions were heard for miles, but as far as could officially be ascertained, there were no casualties. Fires were started by the bombs, however.

An official announcement said that Nazi raiders dropped bombs during the night in Scotland and southeast and southwest England. Two German planes were shot down.

Simultaneously, members of the class of 1907 began registering today for military duty.

It was revealed in an official statement that yesterday 150 German bombers and fighters and British pursuit planes battled in two major engagements yesterday.

BABYLON, N. Y., July 20—It cost Salvatore Lampasona $50 today for having a tattered and dirty American flag flopping in the breeze over an out-building behind his home here.

Salvatore who is twenty-five years old and who said he had been in this country for fifteen years without becoming an American citizen, pleaded guilty to a malicious mischief charge and was given the maximum fine possible by Justice of the Peace John C. Robbins who declared:

SIX PROBLEMS BEFORE SOLONS

Congressmen Hint Closer
Scrutiny Probable
For F. D. Bills

WASHINGTON, July 20—Congress reconvenes Monday—a congress that appeared determined today to give President Roosevelt's requests for new billions for national defense "considerable more" scrutiny.

Capitol leaders denied that a stiffening attitude by the congress would be due to the fact that Mr. Roosevelt is running for a third term. They took the position that the legislature already has appropriated enough money to get the President's $14,500,000,000 national defense program fully under way. Therefore, they explained, the first emergency is over and there will be more time to study proposed expenditures.

Among those who took that view was Sen. Walter George (D) Ga., a member of the powerful senate finance committee. George, recalling that President Roosevelt's multi-billion-dollar defense appropriations had been enacted in record time, predicted:

"There will be considerable more debate and consideration in the future on the President's requests."

Six major pieces of legislation face the returning law-makers. They are:

1. President Roosevelt's "total defense" bill calling for $5,000,000,000 to equip an army of 2,000,000 if necessary.
2. Mr. Roosevelt's request for (Continued on Page Eight)

GEORGIA SOLON OPPOSES SLATE OF DEMOCRATS

LYNCHBURG, S. C., July 20—U. S. Senator Ellison D. "Cotton Ed" Smith (D) of South Carolina, whom President Roosevelt attempted to "read out" of the Democratic party last summer, today branded the Roosevelt-Wallace presidential ticket "undemocratic," and declared he would not support it in the coming political campaign.

At the same time, the fiery statesman, who said he was a "Democrat and intended to continue a Democrat," stated he would not vote for the Republican presidential nominee, Wendell L. Willkie.

"The men carrying the party banner (Roosevelt and Wallace) are not Democrats," Sen. Smith said. "They are New Dealers."

"I have long been opposed to the New Deal and I shall continue to oppose it," he declared.

YOUTHS ARRESTED FOR SHATTERING BOTTLES

For breaking glass bottles in the street at Darbyville, four young men were arrested Friday night by Charles Huffer, Darbyville marshal. They were Nathan Van Smith, 23, and John W. The bottles belonged to a Columbus firm, Marshal Huffer said.

BERLIN, July 20—Reichs-

Weather Speeds Harvest;
Wheat Yields Vary,
Observers Say

Circleville's most severe heat wave of the season continued Saturday and threatened to push temperatures above the record set Friday at 97 degrees. No relief was seen Saturday as weather observers predicted "generally fair and continued warm Sunday."

Friday night temperatures slid to 73 degrees, Miss Abbe Mills
Clarke of the weather bureau reported, but mounted again Saturday under a blazing sun and clear sky.

Farmers say weather conditions are ideal for threshing, and many communities report that with a few more days of fair weather, they will be able to complete their wheat harvests.

Wheat yields in the county differ greatly. Agricultural officials report that the yields are running anywhere from 14 to 31 bushels per acre.

Many farmers report that they now have sweet corn ready for market, although none is expected to be canned for at least a week.

F. D. R. RESTING ON YACHT AFTER HISTORIC WEEK

WASHINGTON, July 20—Cool breezes of the Potomac River today eased the heat of Washington's summer and of the impending political campaign for President Roosevelt.

Accompanied only by his secretariat, the President was cruising somewhere south of the capital aboard his yacht Potomac.
There were no telephones to remind him of the hectic week just past—the week which saw his unprecedented renomination for a third term and demonstrated his complete mastery over the Democratic party. The navy radio kept him in touch with important affairs of the world and nation.

Emulating his Republican opponent, Wendell Willkie, now vacationing in Colorado Springs, Mr.
Roosevelt momentarily was seeking succor from the presidential campaign about to unfold—as well as the grave problems of international policy and national defense.

Some time late today the presidential yachting party will return from its cruise. A special train was in readiness to take Mr.
Roosevelt up to his Hyde Park home for about four days. He will leave either tonight or tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, July 20—Congress reconvenes Monday—a con-today to give President Roosevelt's requests for new billions for na-scrutiny.

Capitol leaders denied that a stiffening attitude by the congress would be due to the fact that the first emergency is over and there will be more time to study proposed expenditures.

Among those who took that multi-billion-dollar defense ap-

"There will be considerable more

They are:
1. President Roosevelt's "total

LYNCHBURG, S. C., July 20—
U. S. Senator Ellison D. "Cotton

whom President Roosevelt at-

Democratic party last summer, today branded the Roosevelt-

At the same time, the fiery statesman, who said he was "a Democrat and intended to continue a Democrat," stated he would not vote for the Republican presidential nominee, Wendell L.
Willkie.

"The men carrying the party banner (Roosevelt and Wallace) are not Democrats," Sen. Smith said. "They are New Dealers."
"I have long been opposed to the New Deal and I shall con-

'CON' MULCAHY,
WIDELY KNOWN
DEMOCRAT, DIES

AKRON, July 20—All of Akron
today mourned the death of Cornelius (Con) Mulcahy, veteran Democratic leader and prominent civic figure.

Stricken with a heart attack
May 17, a week after his 75th birthday, Mulcahy suffered a re-lapse while apparently on the road to recovery, and died in his Akron home while the men who had chosen his second choice
"favorite son" candidate from Ohio were bringing to a close the first Democratic convention he failed to attend since 1920.

Mulcahy was Democratic chairman in Summit County from 1916 until his death, with the exception of a brief period in 1932 and 1933.
He was considered one of the most capable politicians in Ohio, and was held in esteem by leaders of both parties.

Mulcahy was born in Nevada,
O., and came to Akron in 1898.
Funeral services will be held Monday morning in St. Vincent's
Catholic Church, Akron. Burial will be in Belfast, N. Y.

McNUTT CLUB TO CHANGE
ITS NAME FOR NEW JOB

INDIANAPOLIS, July 20—With a slight change in its name, the "McNutt for President" club which backed Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt for the Democratic presidential nomination, will continue in operation.
It will now be the "McNutt for President in 1944" club.

James E. Perry notified Secretary of State James M. Tucker of Indianapolis that the club will be incorporated under the new name.
McNutt is a former governor of Indiana.

WAY CLEAR FOR NEW
LOW-RENT HOME AREA

COLUMBUS, July 20—The way was cleared today for construction of the $1,000,000 M.L. Calvery low-rent housing project as the city issued a fee-free building permit to the Columbus Metropolitan housing authority.

First bids on the project, which will embrace 65 one and two-story brick apartments, were to be advertised next week, with construction scheduled to get underway in September.

Garner Willing to Serve
Country Again If Needed

WASHINGTON, July 20—Although Vice-President John Nance Garner, the "forgotten man" of the Democratic party is planning to retire from public life, he is willing to serve his country again if needed, his associates revealed today.

The Texan will make known his plans within a few days to close friends and to President Roosevelt, whom he opposed for a third term nomination.

"Cactus Jack" has made it clear to his friends, however, that he does not intend to take an active part in the Democratic campaign.
They say that he has taken the collapse of the pre-convention drive to stop Roosevelt "pretty hard." They also say that he

BLIMPS SEARCH
FOR LOST BOY
IN NEW JERSEY

NEW YORK, July 20—Three blimps from Lakehurst, N. J., naval air station today continued a search for Craig Bender, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bender of Linden, N. J., who disappeared Thursday evening.

The youngster vanished while he was on his way from his parents' summer cottage at Beach-wood, N. J., to the home of a playmate two blocks away.

On the theory that he might have wandered from the road and became lost in the dense woods nearby, the blimps were asked to assist in the search while more than 500 persons scoured the thickets on the ground.

COLUMBUS ELKS WIN
HONORS AT HOUSTON

HOUSTON, Texas, July 20—
The Columbus, O., band and women's drill team today had topped all competition at the Elks' National Convention by winning four first places and a fourth.

The Columbus band won the Class A band competition and also topped the field in "best appearance" in the annual parade. The ladies patrol team headed the best uniformed group and also was the largest team traveling the longest distance. The team placed fourth in drill competition.

Howard Ater and Ed. C. Ebert, Jr., of Circleville, are members of the championship band.

Reds Blow One; Bucky to Pitch In Giant Game

Joost, Lombardi Contribute Miscues, Help Bees In Seven Run Rally; Yankees Move Along As Cleveland Pitching Fails

CINCINNATI, July 20—Certain that they got all the bad fielding out of their systems yesterday, when they dropped an 8 to 7 tilt to the Boston Bees, the Cincinnati Reds today played host to the New York Giants in the first of a three-game series.

Despite the loss to the Beantown Boys, the Reds maintained their three-game lead over the Brooklyn Dodgers, who dropped an 11 to 4 decision to Chicago.

The Cincinnati war clubs pounded out 14 hits to eight for Boston, but four Bee safeties coupled with two Red errors in the seventh stanza cost the Reds the ball game.

The Bees crossed the pay-off platter seven times in that goofy seventh. Up to that point Thompson had pitched good ball.

But a walk and two singles filled the bases. Then Lombardi juggled Joost's return of a grounder to let in Run No. 1. Another walk forced in a second tally. Then came Joost's three-run error—he threw Buddy Hassett's grounder to the stands instead of to Lombardi, and three more unearned tallies went up on the board.

Thompson Loser
Johnny Cooney tripled to score Hassett, and Miller, up for the second time in the inning, sent Cooney home with a single. The Reds used four hurlers, three of them in the futile effort to stop that seventh inning parade. Thompson was charged with the loss.

Bucky Walters will go after his 14th win of the year this afternoon when he faces the Giant bats. Bill Lohman was to oppose him.

NEW YORK, July 20—It may be just as well to hold up those world series reservations for Detroit, Cleveland or Boston for a while.

For the Yanks give evidence of emerging from their long slump and are now hitting with their old time power. They unloaded against yesterday to hand the Indians their sixth straight setback, 15-6.

The Yanks have now beaten Cleveland's three aces in a row—Feller, Milner and Smith—and they hit harder on each succeeding day. Yesterday they splattered the fences with 13 hits, including three doubles, a pair of 425-foot triples and four homers.

Dahlgren hit two homers, Gordon one and Buddy Rosar, the young catcher, added a round tripper to his pass, single, double and triple for a perfect day.

The Yanks also picked up a game on the Red Sox who were shut out, 4-0, by Tommy Bridges of the Tigers. Thornton Lee, the White Sox lefty, ended the Senators' winning streak with a five-hit, 9-1 job.

Browns End Losses
And to prove that all things must end, even a Brownie losing streak, the Browns topped the Athletics, 9-7, despite two adverse batters by Bob Johnson.

Hal Schumacher unloaded a base-clearing triple to help himself and the Giants to a 5-2 victory over the Pirates; Hank Leiber hit a homer with three aboard as the Cubs downed the Dodgers, 11-4; and the lowly Bees staged a seven-run uprising against Thompson in the seventh to beat the Reds, 8-7.

The Cards too a pair of well pitched games from the Phils, 3-2 and 5-3, and Johnny Mize inserted his 25th homer in the nightcap.

Stands Out FIGHTS HOSTAK IN WEST

Tony Wins Recognition As Middleweight Champion After Showing

SEATTLE, Wash., July 20—Tony Zale of Chicago won National Boxing Association recognition as middleweight champion last night by battering Al Hostak of Seattle to a technical knockout in the thirteenth round.

Zale emerged with the middleweight crown hardly marked. Hostak's manager, Eddie Marlin, said both of Hostak's hands, broken twice in previous fights, again went bad.

"He has no business ever fighting again," said Marlin.

As early as the sixth round the crowd sensed that Hostak was on the run. He had none of the fire of earlier fights and his punches lacked the dynamite that carried him to the title.

The end came 1 minute and 20 seconds after the start of the 13th round in their scheduled 15-round battle. Hostak was floored three times, twice in the 13th, and was on one knee and wobbling when Referee Benny Leonard stopped the fight.

The first knockdown, for a count of nine, came in the 12th, when Hostak's eyes were closed and blood streamed from his face. Two vicious blows to the kidneys brought the technical kayo.

A crowd of 16,000 witnessed the fight, cheering strongly for the home town boy as the fight opened, but later changing their cries to "stop the slaughter."

HEROES AND GOATS
The Heroes: Frank Leiber, Cubs, whose homer with bases loaded gave Cubs winning start against Dodgers; Buddy Rosar, Yankees, who hit single, double, triple and homer against Indians; Vernon Kennedy, Browns, who beat Athletics to stop 14-game losing streak.

The Goats: Al Smith, Indians, who was pounded for seven runs in first inning; Gene Thompson, Reds, against whom Bees launched 7-run assault in seventh.

MODERN BOY WINNER IN GOSHEN TRACK FEATURE
GOSHEN, N. Y., July 20—Modern Boy, owned and driven by H. M. Parshall, today had won the historic trot for three year olds in straight heats. The colt, a candidate for the Hambletonian stakes, won easily.

It was the final day of grand circuit racing here and a thirteen day meeting will open tomorrow at Narragansett Park.

F. R. G., owned by the Cardform Traffic Service of Milwaukee, won the first division of the handicapped pace and Victor Volo, owned by B. A. Milligan of Youngstown, O., won the second division. E. R. Harriman in the amateur driver event won with Prohibitor of the Arden Homestead stables and Talky from the same stables won the second division of the two year old trot.

AUSTRALIAN STAR LEADS IN CHICAGO OPEN MEET
CHICAGO, July 20—Jim Ferrier, Australian amateur and open champion, today started the second round on the Chicago Open Golf tournament with a one-stroke lead and a new competitive course record to his credit.

The Australian yesterday toured the Tam O'Shanter Country Club course in 68, one stroke better than the card turned in by Johnny Revolta of Evanston, former PGA champ. Dick Metz of Oak Park, Ill., and Willie Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., needed 68 strokes apiece.

Well up in the running in the 72-hole tournament were Ed Oliver, Hornell, N. Y., Johnny Bulla, Chicago, and Ralph Guldahl, Chicago, each with a card of 69.

Sam Snead, Shawnee, Pa., and Ben Hogan, New York, were among those with 73s.

About This And That In Many Sports

This day being July 20, Circleville High School's gridiron hopefuls have only one month more of leisure before Coach Roy Black calls his squad to go to work in preparation for one of the best schedules the Tiger school has had in many moons. . . . There will be variety, and a host of strong foes on the opposite side of the line against the Red and Black lads this year. . . . That school authorities expect to have a fairly good football team is evidenced by the fact that the schedule includes seven home games with only two on the road. . . . Another factor that might have influenced the at-home schedule is the fact that an effort will be made to pay off the school's debt on the lighting system that graces the gridiron. . . .

August 20, the first day of practice permitted under Ohio High School Athletic Association rules, Coach Black and his assistant, Tom Armstrong, are expected to go to work and from all indications a large squad of boys will be on hand. . . . Three major replacements must be made, although several other lettermen have graduated to provide vacancies. . . . The three outstanding holes to fill, however, will be in the backfield where Harold Smith performed, at fullback and tackle where Bob Bowsher did some fine work, and at left end where Paul Walters held forth. . . . Coach Black believes that his squad of young hopefuls will supply capable replacements. . . .

On the schedule this year will be Groveport, taking the place of Frankfort; West Jefferson, one of Ohio's few undefeated teams last year; Columbus Holy Rosary, always a toughie; Lancaster, the Golden Gales to be strong despite loss of Diet Acton and Bobby Willis by graduation; Bremen, a Pumpkin Show week feature again, and the four league games, Washington and Hillsboro on the local greensward, and Greenfield and Washington C. H. on foreign fields. . . . The last two teams are the only one that will be played on out-of-town ballfields. . . .

The first game will be Friday, September 13, that date being the first Friday after schools starts. . . .

Coach Black will be starting his third year in the harness as Circleville's mentor, coming here from Urbana. . . . His team showed development before the first year ended, and last year the Tiger varsity was the most interesting Circleville has had in some years. . . . What this year's team will produce cannot be known until it is tested. . . .

BIMELECH NEEDS WIN TO CLINCH TITLE FOR AGE

CHICAGO, July 20—An oft-told tale was told again today as Col. E. R. Bradley's ebony-coated Bimelech went to the post as a heavy favorite, this time in the $50,000 gross Arlington classic stakes at Arlington Park this afternoon.

Probable odds on Bimelech were quoted at 4 to 5, and only Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Gallahadion, which conquered Bimelech in the Kentucky Derby, was given a good chance to beat him. Odds on Gallahadion were 3 to 1.

More than 40,000 fans were expected to jam the park for the big mile-and-a-quarter race. If Bimelech wins it, adding the honor to his Peakness and Belmont Stakes triumphs, there will be none to contest his right to the title as champion 3-year-old for 1940.

Besides the two favorites, Millsdale Stable's Andy K. Arnold Hanger's Dit, Dixiana Stable's Si-rocco, and A. C. Ernst's Alhalon were entered. Dit and Andy K. rated best in the probable odds, at 5-1 and 8-1, while Alhalon was considered an outside longshot, at 20-1.

Backers of Gallahadion claimed the advantage in training. Mrs. Mars' colt, which if he wins will be the first Chicago-owned entry to capture the classic, has been training at Arlington for the last month, and last Saturday won the classic trial. Bimelech has been trained carefully, but hasn't been in competition for six weeks.

WHITE BEATEN IN TOUGH ONE; BREWS OUTHIT, WIN

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 20—Ernie White, Columbus southpaw, today had the dubious distinction of losing a three-hit ball game as Bob Kilne of the Milwaukee Brewers edged him, 5 to 4.

Except for Ted Gullie's homer in the initial stanza, White hurled perfect ball for eight and one-third innings. But in the fatal ninth the Brewers got to him for two walks, a double, and Charlie English's homer, scoring four runs to win the ball game.

The Birds outhit the Brewers, five to three, scoring a trio of markers in the fourth and an unearned run in the ninth.

The league-leading Kansas City Blues split a pair with the lowly Toledo Mudhens, winning the first, 7 to 2, but dropping the seven-inning finale, 2 to 1. In the nightcap Gill of the Hens set the champs down with three bingles. Louisville at Minneapolis and Indianapolis at St. Paul were rained out.

'MAGIC STREAM' IN HIGH RATING

Bryson's Horse Classed As Finest Runner At Two In Nation

By Lou Bindman

NEW YORK, July 20—H. G. Bedwell's Blensign came to the end of his undefeated score with the running of the Christiana Stakes at Delaware Park recently and in the same race E. K. Bryson's Magic Stream scored his third straight triumph, the most important of his short career.

As a consequence, positions became reversed. Having proved the winner over the Bedwell colt, Magic Stream assumed the former's previous claim to choice consideration for juvenile distinction while the Blendheim offspring, while by no means out of the titular running, took a seat a little more to the rear.

Magic Stream scored heavily by his Christiana performance since not only did he lay low the promising Blensign, but also sent other high hopes reeling—that of the Mrs. E. G. Lewis stable which not long before had uncovered a crack colorbearer in the form of Chicuelo, which won at first asking at Aqueduct in new track time. Chicuelo could do no better than third behind the fleet winner and Blensign.

Of course, only time will tell whether, in the final analysis, Magic Stream is worthy of a higher rating than either Blensign or Chicuelo, but for the time being, at least, the son of Coldstream Witchcraft holds an edge for it goes without saying it required speed of a high order to hold down such a worthy pair as well as some other flashy ones, such as George D. Widener's Overdrawn, Mrs. Ogden Phipps' Pat 'n Mike and Arnold Hanger's Big States which were also in the Christiana Stakes field.

COLUMBUS, July 20—The first of the three-game softball series between Ohio Penitentiary's "Henderson's Hurricanes" and the London Prison Farm's "Armire's Angels" was to get under way at O. Henry field inside the penitentiary walls this afternoon.

The "Angels" were 3 to 2 favorites, due to the hurling ability of Hank Shariok, Cleveland, who has won 24, last only four and tied one this season. His victories include a no-hitter against the state champion Ferguson Auditors.

NEVER ONE LIKE HENRY, DECLARES MR. EDDIE MEAD

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, July 20—"Henry Armstrong takes all the heart out of these other guys when he lives under their best punches and keeps right on piling in there," said Eddie Mead, manager of the Brown little welterweight champion today, by way of explaining Armstrong's almost fantastic boxing record. "That's how he became the first man ever to hold three titles at the same time and it explains his ability as a knockout. There never was one like him before and there won't be again."

Unperturbed about the 60-day suspension slapped on him by the New York Boxing Commission and quite complacent over the rematch of Armstrong and Lew Jenkins, the lightweight champion, for September 27, Mr. Mead went on to say:

"I don't know what will happen in the rematch, except that we expect to win. Naturally, Armstrong will have a bad night and Jenkins may have a good one and fight a better fight, and if you don't nail him he may give you plenty of trouble. No, I don't think Jenkins was out of condition last Wednesday night. What I think caused him to fold up and fail to answer that seventh round bell was a left hook to the pit of the stomach near the end of the second round—

"That and what I said before—Armstrong taking Jenkins' best shots and still boring in all the time."

What Mr. Mead passed over lightly is the fact that Armstrong isn't likely to have a sufficiently bad evening to contrive to lose to Jenkins, barring a bonebreak or a sudden attack of some acute and terrible illness, Jenkins can't do it with his fists.

Yesterday they splattered the fences with 13 hits, including three doubles, a pair of 425-foot triples and four homers. Dahlgren hit two homers, Gordon one and Buddy Rosar, the young catcher, added a round tripper to his pass, single, double and triple for a perfect day.

The Yanks also picked up a game on the Red Sox who were shut out, 4-0, by Tommy Bridges of the Tigers. Thornton Lee, the White Sox lefty, ended the Senators' winning streak with a five-hit, 9-1 job.

Browns End Losses

And to prove that all things must end, even a Brownie losing streak, the Browns topped the Athletics, 9-7, despite two adverse homers by Bob Johnson.

Hal Schumacher unloaded a base-clearing triple to help himself and the Giants to a 5-2 victory over the Pirates; Hank Leiber hit a homer with three aboard as the Cubs downed the Dodgers,

Will Kiki Replace Gabby?

Kiki Cuyler

Gabby Hartnett

ACCORDING to the rumor department, Gabby Hartnett's job as manager of the Chicago Cubs is in peril. If and when he is replaced, Kiki Cuyler, former Pirate and Cub star and now manager of the Chattanooga, Tenn., Southern association team, may get the job.

ZALE OUTFIGHTS HOSTAK IN WEST

Tony Wins Recognition As Middleweight Champion After Showing

SEATTLE, Wash., July 20—Tony Zale of Chicago won National Boxing Association recognition as middleweight champion last night by battering Al Hostak of Seattle to a technical knockout in the thirteenth round.

Zale emerged with the middleweight crown hardly marked. Hostak's manager, Eddie Marino, said both of Hostak's hands, broken twice in previous fights, again went bad.

"He has no business ever fighting again," said Marino.

As early as the sixth round the crowd sensed that Hostak was on the run. He had none of the fire of earlier fights and his punches lacked the dynamite that carried him to the title.

The end came 1 minute and 20 seconds after the start of the 13th round in their scheduled 15-round battle. Hostak was floored three times, twice in the 13th, and was on one knee and wobbling when Referee Benny Leonard stopped the fight.

The first knockdown, for a count of nine, came in the 12th, when Hostak's eyes were closed and blood streamed from his face. Two vicious blows to the kidneys brought the technical kayo.

A crowd of 16,000 witnessed the fight, cheering strongly for the home town boy as the fight opened, but later changing their cries to "stop the slaughter."

HEROES AND GOATS

The Heroes: Hank Leiber, Cubs, whose homer with bases loaded gave Cubs winning start against Dodgers; Buddy Rosar, Yanks, who hit single, double, triple and homer against Indians; Vernon Kennedy, Browns, who beat Athletics to stop 14-game losing streak.

The Goats: Al Smith, Indians, who was pounded for seven runs in first inning; Gene Thompson, Reds, against whom Bees launched 7-run assault in seventh.

MODERN BOY WINNER IN GOSHEN TRACK FEATURE

GOSHEN, N. Y., July 20—Modern Boy, owned and driven by H. M. Marshall, today had won the historic trot for three year olds in straight heats. The colt, a candidate for the Hambletonian stakes, won easily.

It was the final day of grand circuit racing here and a thirteen day meeting will open tomorrow at Narragansett Park.

F. R. G., owned by the Cardmore Traffic Service of Milwaukee, won the first division of the handicapped pace and Victor Volo, owned by B. A. Milligan of Youngstown, O., won the second division. E. R. Harriman in the amateur driver event won with Prohibitor of the Arden Homestead stables and Talky from the same stables won the second division of the two year old trot.

AUSTRALIAN STAR LEADS IN CHICAGO OPEN MEET

CHICAGO, July 20—Jim Ferrier, Australian amateur and open champion, today started the second round on the Chicago Open Golf tournament with a one-stroke lead and a new competitive course record to his credit.

The Australian yesterday toured the Tam O'Shanter Country Club course in 66, one stroke better than the card turned in by Johnny Revolta of Evanston, former PGA champ. Dick Metz of Oak Park, Ill., and Willie Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., needed 68 strokes apiece.

Well up in the running in the 72-hole tournament were Ed Oliver, Hornell, N. Y., Johnny Bulla, Chicago, and Ralph Guldahl, Chicago, each with a card of 69.

Sam Sneed, Shawnee, Pa., and Ben Hogan, New York, were among those with 73s.

About This And That In Many Sports

This day being July 20, Circleville High School's gridiron hopefuls have only one month more of leisure before Coach Roy Black calls his squad to go to work in preparation for one of the best schedules the Tiger school has had in many moons. . . . There will be variety, and a host of strong foes on the opposite side of the line against the Red and Black lads this year. . . . That school authorities expect to have a fairly good football team is evidenced by the fact that the schedule includes seven home games with only two on the road. . . . Another factor that might have influenced the at-home schedule is the fact that an effort will be made to pay off the school's debt on the lighting system that graces the gridiron. . . .

August 20, the first day of practice permitted under Ohio High School Athletic Association rules, Coach Black and his assistant, Tom Armstrong, are expected to go to work and from all indications a large squad of boys will be on hand. . . . Three major replacements must be made, although several other lettermen have graduated to provide vacancies. . . . The three outstanding holes to fill, however, will be in the backfield where Harold Smith performed, at fullback and tackle where Bob Bowsher did some fine work, and at left end where Paul Walters held forth. . . . Coach Black believes that his squad of young hopefuls will supply capable replacements. . . .

On the schedule this year will be Groveport, taking the place of Frankfort; West Jefferson, one of Ohio's few undefeated teams last year; Columbus Holy Rosary, always a toughie; Lancaster, the Golden Gales to be strong despite loss of Diet Acton and Bobby Willis by graduation; Bremen, a Pumpkin Show week feature again, and the four league games, Washington and Hillsboro on the local greensward, and Greenfield and Washington C. H. on foreign fields. . . . The last two teams are the only one that will be played on out-of-town ballfields. . . .

The first game will be Friday, September 13, that date being the first Friday after schools starts. . . .

Coach Black will be starting his third year in the harness as Circleville's mentor, coming here from Urbana. . . . His team showed development before the first year ended, and last year the Tiger varsity was the most interesting Circleville has had in some years. . . . What this year's team will produce cannot be known until it is tested. . . .

BIMELECH NEEDS WIN TO CLINCH TITLE FOR AGE

CHICAGO, July 20—An oft-told tale was told again today as Col. E. R. Bradley's ebony-coated Bimelech went to the post as a heavy favorite, this time in the $50,000 gross Arlington classic stakes at Arlington Park this afternoon.

Probable odds on Bimelech were quoted at 4 to 5, and only Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Gallahadion, which conquered Bimelech in the Kentucky Derby, was given a good chance to beat him. Odds on Gallahadion were 3 to 1.

More than 40,000 fans were expected to jam the park for the big mile-and-a-quarter race. If Bimelech wins it, adding the honor to his Preakness and Belmont Stakes triumphs, there will be none to contest his right to the title as champion 3-year-old for 1940.

Besides the two favorites, Millsdale Stable's Andy K., Arnold Hanger's Dit, Dixiana Stable's Si-rocco, and A. C. Ernst's Alhalon were entered. Dit and Andy K. rated best in the probable odds, at 5-1 an 8-1, while Alhalon was considered an outside longshot, at 20-1.

Backers of Gallahadion claimed the advantage in training. Mrs. Mars' colt, which if he wins will be the first Chicago-owned entry to capture the classic, has been training at Arlington for the last month, and last Saturday won the classic trial. Bimelech has been trained carefully, but hasn't been in competition for six weeks.

NAME of Ab Wright, Minneapolis outfielder formerly with the Cleveland Indians, should go down in baseball history following his devastating day at the plate when he socked four home runs and a triple for a total of 19 bases in one game. Wright's feat set an American Association record.

WHITE BEATEN IN TOUGH ONE; BREWS OUTHIT, WIN

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 20—Ernie White, Columbus southpaw, today had the dubious distinction of losing a three-hit ball game as Bob Kline of the Milwaukee Brewers edged him, 5 to 4.

Except for Ted Gullic's homer in the initial stanza, White hurled perfect ball for eight and one-third innings. But in the fatal ninth the Brewers got to him for two walks, a double, and Charlie English's homer, scoring four runs to win the ball game.

The Birds outhit the Brewers, five to three, scoring a trio of markers in the fourth and an unearned run in the ninth.

The league-leading Kansas City Blues split a pair with the lowly Toledo Mudhens, winning the first, 7 to 2, but dropping the seven-inning finale, 2 to 1. In the nightcap Gill of the Hens set the champs down with three bingles. Louisville at Minneapolis and Indianapolis at St. Paul were rained out.

'MAGIC STREAM' IN HIGH RATING

Bryson's Horse Classed As Finest Runner At Two In Nation

By Lou Bindman

NEW YORK, July 20—H. G. Bedwell's Blensign came to the end of his undefeated score with the running of the Christiana Stakes at Delaware Park recently and in the same race E. K. Bryson's Magic Stream scored his third straight triumph, the most important of his short career.

As a consequence, positions became reversed. Having proved the winner over the Bedwell colt, Magic Stream assumed the former's previous claim to choice consideration for juvenile distinction while the Blendheim offspring, while by no means out of the titular running, took a seat a little more to the rear.

Magic Stream scored heavily by his Christiana performance since not only did he lay low the promising Blensign, but also sent other high hopes reeling—that of the Mrs. E. G. Lewis stable which not long before had uncovered a crack colorbearer in the form of Chicuelo, which won at first asking at Aqueduct in new track time. Chicuelo could do no better than third behind the fleet winner and Blend-sign.

Of course, only time will tell whether, in the final analysis, Magic Stream is worthy of a higher rating than either Blend-sign or Chicuelo, but for the time being, at least, the son of Coldstream-Witchcraft holds an edge for it goes without saying it required speed of a high order to hold down such a worthy pair as well as some other flashy ones, such as George D. Widener's Overdrawn, Mrs. Ogden Phipps' Pat 'n Mike and Arnold Hanger's Big States which were also in the Christiana Stakes field.

LONDON AND OHIO PRISON SOFTBALL TEAMS TO VIE

COLUMBUS, July 20—The first of the three-game softball series between Ohio Penitentiary's "Henderson's Hurricanes" and the London Prison Farm's "Amrine's Angels" was to get under way at O. Henry field inside the penitentiary walls this afternoon.

The "Angels" were 3 to 2 favorites, due to the hurling ability of Hank Shanoski, Cleveland, who has won 24, lost only four and tied one this season. His victories include a no-hitter against the state champion Ferguson Auditors.

NEVER ONE LIKE HENRY, DECLARES MR. EDDIE MEAD

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, July 20—"Henry Armstrong takes all the heart out of these other guys when he lives under their best punches and keeps right on piling in there," said Eddie Mead, manager of the Brown little welterweight champion today, by way of explaining Armstrong's almost fantastic boxing record. "That's how he became the first man ever to hold three titles at the same time and it explains his ability as a knockout. There never was one like him before and there won't be again."

Unperturbed about the 60-day suspension slapped on him by the New York Boxing Commission and quite complacent over the rematch of Armstrong and Lew Jenkins, the lightweight champion, for September 27, Mr. Mead went on to say:

"I don't know what will happen in the rematch, except that we expect to win. Naturally, Armstrong will have a bad night and Jenkins may have a good one and fight a better fight, and if you don't nail him he may give you plenty of trouble. No, I don't think Jenkins was out of condition last Wednesday night. What I think caused him to fold up and fall to answer that seventh round bell was a left hook to the pit of the stomach near the end of the second round—

What Mr. Mead passed over lightly is the fact that Armstrong isn't likely to have a sufficiently bad evening to contrive to lose to Jenkins, barring a bonebreak or a sudden attack of some acute and terrible illness, Jenkins can't do it with his fists.

Week's Program for Lancaster Camp Meeting Receiving Much Attention

Rev. Cadle's Appearance Sunday To Attract Large Crowd

The Methodist camp meeting at Lancaster begins its third-week schedule Sunday with a varied program of religious services, educational features and entertainment planned for the week.

Feature attraction on the Sunday program will be the noonday broadcast from the camp ground auditorium of the Rev. E. Howard Cadle, nationally known radio evangelist.

The program Sunday morning will begin at 10 o'clock with the Adult Bible Class being taught by Attorney Andrew S. Mitchell of Newark, and the Young People's class by Attorney Joseph Carlos Brashares of Logan. During the afternoon services, which will begin at 3 o'clock, Dr. W. M. Briggs, pastor of the King Avenue Church, Columbus, will speak, while Charles W. Walton Jr., head of the piano department at Buena Vista College, Storm Lake, Iowa, will play a piano concert in the evening.

A novelty trio, featuring Anna Blair Miller, who plays four instruments, sings, reads and has a repertoire of seven costume numbers will appear on the Monday afternoon program beginning at 2 p. m. and again during the evening service, beginning at 8. A marionette show will appear on the Tuesday program. "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," "Wizard of Oz," and "Cinderella" will be presented.

The Lancaster Federation of the W. C. T. C. will hold its annual convention Wednesday, while Thursday has been set aside as "Health Day," with discussions of health programs and dreaded diseases planned. Among the speakers will be J. F. Bateman, commissioner of mental diseases in the state department of public welfare, Dr. Earl Hayes Baxter, Columbus, Myron D. Miller, superintendent of the Franklin Sanatorium and Howard E. Hamlin, state supervisor of health and narcotics.

Friday a magician will give two performances at the camp ground, one at 2 p. m. and one at 8 p. m. The regular annual meeting of the Campground association for the election of five trustees whose terms expire this year, will be held Saturday at 10 a. m. A professional group will present two comedies during the afternoon and evening programs.

JAPANESE ROUNDUP

TOKYO — In an endeavor to suppress the recent increase of offenses by minors against the law and to bring home to them the "serious nature of the times," eighty-eight police stations have recently carried out a synchronized round-up of youngsters who showed signs of suffering from spendthrift habits arising from war-boom wages. By midnight 2,494 youths had been brought in, most of whom after being severely lectured concerning their erring ways, were released after writing notes of apology.

The Rev. James O. Miller, pastor of the Pilgrim Holiness Church, will conduct a baptismal service at the creek on the H. E. Montellus farm Sunday at 2:30 p. m. The farm is located three miles south of Circleville on the Kingston Pike. A prayer meeting will be held Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

Because there will be no worship service at the First Presbyterian Church during August, the trustees suggest that church contributions for the month either be given the last two Sundays in July or be sent during August to Robert Colville, treasurer of the church.

"A Man's Friends" will be the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey's sermon topic during the Sunday morning Presbyterian worship hour while Mrs. Clark Will and Mrs. Ray Davis, will sing "I Will Magnify Thee, O God" by Monsenthal. Organ selections to be played by Miss Abbe Mills Clarke include "The Bells of St. Anne" by Russell, "Berceuse" by Godard, and "March" by Gounod.

Sunday school teachers of the First Methodist Church will talk on "The Repentance of Job" at the Sunday school session Sunday morning at 9:15. During the worship service the Rev. C. F. Bowman will speak on "The Pathway of The Just." Special music will be furnished by the choir.

Rev. Robert T. Kelsey, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, has announced that he will attend a planning conference for churches in the Presbytery, to be held Sunday afternoon at the Central Presbyterian Church in Columbus. At the conference fall and winter programs will be discussed.

MORE CUSTOMS TRAFFIC
MONTEREY, Cal. — For the first time in 70 years the United States Customs Service flag again is flying over Monterey's historic Customs House — built by the Spaniards in 1814. The adobe structure is the build-over which Commodore Sloat first raised the American flag when the United States took possession of California. In recent years, it has been utilized as a state museum. Increased customs business resulted in the re-appointment of a full-time customs inspector for the first time since 1871.

Week's Program for Lancaster Camp Meeting Receiving Much Attention

Rev. Cadle's Appearance Sunday To Attract Large Crowd

The Methodist camp meeting at Lancaster begins its third-week schedule Sunday with a varied program of religious services, educational features and entertainment planned for the week.

Feature attraction on the Sunday program will be the noonday broadcast from the camp ground auditorium of the Rev. E. Howard Cadle, nationally known radio evangelist.

The program Sunday morning will begin at 10 o'clock with the Adult Bible Class being taught by Attorney Andrew S. Mitchell of Newark, and the Young People's class by Attorney Joseph Carlos Brashares of Logan. During the afternoon services, which will begin at 3 o'clock, Dr. W. M. Briggs, pastor of the King Avenue Church, Columbus, will speak, while Charles W. Walton Jr., head of the piano department at Buena Vista College, Storm Lake, Iowa, will play a piano concert in the evening.

A novelty trio, featuring Anna Blair Miller, who plays four instruments, sings, reads and has a repertoire of seven costume numbers will appear on the Monday afternoon program beginning at 2 p. m. and again during the evening service, beginning at 8. A marionette show will appear on the Tuesday program. "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," "Wizard of Oz," and "Cinderella" will be presented.

The Lancaster Federation of the W. C. T. C. will hold its annual convention Wednesday, while Thursday has been set aside as "Health Day," with discussions of health programs and dreaded diseases planned. Among the speakers will be J. F. Bateman, commissioner of mental diseases in the state department of public welfare, Dr. Earl Hayes Baxter, Columbus, Myron D. Miller, superintendent of the Franklin Sanatorium and Howard E. Hamlin, state supervisor of health and narcotics.

Friday a magician will give two performances at the camp ground, one at 2 p. m. and one at 8 p. m. The regular annual meeting of the Campground association for the election of five trustees whose terms expire this year, will be held Saturday at 10 a. m. A professional group will present two comedies during the afternoon and evening programs.

JAPANESE ROUNDUP

TOKYO — In an endeavor to suppress the recent increase of offenses by minors against the law and to bring home to them the "serious nature of the times," eighty-eight police stations here recently carried out a synchronized round-up of youngsters who showed signs of suffering from war-birth habits arising from war-thrift wages. By midnight 2,494 youths had been brought in, most of whom after being severely lectured concerning their erring ways, were released after writing notes of apology.

They were removed from private vaults in the French capital just before the Germans entered Paris.
The incident turns many people's thoughts to a glamorous form of wealth about which little has been said lately. We have imported gold from the Old World, billions and billions of it, until the arrival of another yellow cargo arouses no interest. Great quantities of jewels must have been coming, too. Jewels of all kinds from all over the world. They would naturally seek the safest places—American safe deposit vaults. The precious stones harbored here may run into billions.

MUDDLING REAL STORY AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO—The real story of what went on behind the scenes of the Democratic convention is one of the most amazing chapters in Roosevelt's variegated political history. It was a chapter of indecision, confusion and just plain muddling on the part of the White House circle. In the words of one delegate, they "didn't even have sense enough to hire a band."
Also it was a chapter of expert sabotage on the part of the Wheeler, Garner and Farley antis.
Highlight of the entire backstage drama was the pressure put on the President to make his statement via Senator Barkley, that he did not desire a third term. It took a battery of his closest friends, including Harold Ickes, Bob Jackson, Miss Perkins and Justice Frank Murphy to get this.

What they wanted was some statement which would clarify the muddled waters of the convention, and bring the third term issue squarely into the open. Originally, Roosevelt had shied away from making any statement at all, apparently proposing to let the convention have an absolutely free hand to take its own course.

For when Secretary Ickes dropped in to see him a week or so before the convention and said he wanted to lay the groundwork for Chicago, the President said: "Harold, I just don't want to discuss it."

INEXPERIENCED LEADERSHIP

When the convention met, therefore, not a thing had been done by the Roosevelt people to organize their forces. Harry Hopkins, the President's closest friend, but a man who has never even organized a county convention, was the main master mind, with Attorney General Jackson working in the background. Inexperienced and with few acquaintances among the delegates or local and state leaders, they were easy marks for their veteran rivals.

As a result, when the delegates began to drift into Chicago, at least 800 of them already pledged to Roosevelt, they also began to drift to the man whom they knew—James A. Farley. Jim not only knew them, but remembered their first names instantly, and began to wise-crack about "a third term" and Roosevelt.

A delegate doesn't mind being instructed in advance, and obeying instructions. But he does like to be consulted. And when the arriving delegates were not even able to shake hands with the Roosevelt leaders, they began to wonder why they had paid their own good cash to travel all the way from Maine and California, Florida and New Mexico.

JOE GUFFEY'S BAND

The New Dealers didn't even hire a band. There is nothing like a band to pep up a convention, but Garner's Texans were the only ones that thought of it.

Paul McNutt was wise enough to rent a big layout in the Central Hotel, install a Hawaiian orchestra and entertainers and give the folks free entertainment. But the Roosevelt camp didn't get a band until an hour before Barkley's keynote speech, when Senator Joe Guffey and other

Never Thaw Frozen Foods Before Cooking
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

FROZEN FOODS are being used in ever increasing quantities. In 1937, 273,000,000 pounds of quick frozen foods were shipped, and in 1938, 480,000,000 pounds were estimated. Half of these are vegetables, a quarter chicken and fish, and a little fruit, of which more than half was strawberries. The process makes many more foods available for the average table all over the continent. It affords the consumer fresh material, free from edible waste, and recent studies have shown that such foods preserve their nutritive values.

The germ content of quick-frozen foods is greatly reduced. If the frozen foods are held in storage at temperatures below 32° F. there is little danger of contamination, but on thawing, the organisms increase rapidly. Frozen foods should therefore be cooked without thawing.

A report of Dr. Mary Swartz Rose to the Council on Foods of the American Medical Association states that the cooking of quick-frozen foods presents no special problems. "Practically all products may be put on to cook while still solidly frozen or immediately after partial thawing. Quick-frozen vegetables require only one-half to two-thirds as much time as fresh."

Holds Vitamins

Vitamins are conserved by quick-freezing. Vitamin A values in foods are conserved by storage at low temperature, out of contact with light, in a practically impervious package, conditions which would prevail in the case of quick-frozen foods until delivery to the consumer. No loss of this vitamin has been observed in samples of peas held in storage for as long as eleven months at 40° F.

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO
Struck by a bolt of lightning when he was standing on a load of wheat, Ernest Houck, 17-year-old sophomore of Darby Township High School, was killed instantly July 19 on the John Spradlin farm in Madison County, 300 yards across the Pickaway County line. The team of horses hitched to the wagon was killed also, the wheat set afire but the driver of the wagon, Jack McKirkin, escaped injury.

25 YEARS AGO
Fifty ladies were in attendance when Mrs. William S. Reber and daughters, May and Emma, delightfully entertained the Circleville Home and Hospital Sewing Circle at their beautiful country home in Walnut Township.

It was discovered that the bolt of lightning that killed Starling A. Dumm of Salt Creek Township July 15 struck a telephone pole near the home of his father, Allen Dumm, about 300 yards away and followed the wire to the point where he was standing when stricken.

Mrs. Hulse Hays, as a member of the executive board of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs, was a guest at the home of Mrs. George E. Sharpe at her home, Sycamore Hill, Steubenville. Mrs. William Shidler, Oxford, newly elected director of the General Federation of Women's Clubs of Ohio, presented organization business.

10 YEARS AGO
Circleville temperatures, July 18, reached a mark slightly over 102, and July 19 was destined to reach a figure of 104 or more according to Dr. Hartley R. Clarke, weather observer. The mercury in the city reached the highest point of any in Ohio.

SYNOPSIS
THE CHARACTERS:
LINDA AVERY, receptionist at a New York models' agency, starts to rebuild her romance with RONALD STAFFORD, her childhood sweetheart, who has "swung his way to fame on a trumpet," but SARAH MARKLEY, wealthy glamor girl, is trying to capture Ronald for herself. Meanwhile ROBERT BARTON, young engineer, strikes up a friendship with Linda. He introduces her to TERRY ADAMS, publicity man, and Terry's sweetheart, CAROLINE PICKARD, who has been unable to find work. Life is complicated by MINA NEVINS, a famous actress, who is determined to marry Robert. She believes Linda is romancing with the young engineer.
YESTERDAY: Mina Nevins breaks into the gaiety of the yacht party to announce that an emerald ring is missing—stolen. Linda tells Sarah she believes the ring will be found in her stateroom.
CHAPTER TWENTY
BEDLAM followed Linda's announcement that she thought Mina Nevins' missing emerald ring would be found in her room. The young detective drew her aside.
"What makes you say that? You can't mean you took it?"
Linda's green eyes flashed furiously. "Certainly not! But I think Miss Nevins took her own ring and concealed it in my room because she doesn't like me." She kept her voice low so the others could not hear, but the detective, in the excitement, raised his tones. "Why doesn't Miss Nevins like you?"
Mina heard, and her amused, indignant voice took up the theme. "Not like her? But my dear Mr. Henderson, why should I bother to like or dislike the girl? I don't understand!"
Robert had moved to one side of Linda and Ronald was holding her arm on the other side. Ronald spoke quickly. "If Linda thinks Miss Nevins hid the ring in her cabin she has a reason for it. Why not do a search act, Henderson?" He looked straight into Linda's eyes. "What makes you think that Miss Nevins dislikes you?"
Linda's face did not change. She had done nothing to bring this woman's hatred upon herself. If Ronald loved her, if he was marrying her for better or worse, she must have faith in her. She must not be afraid to tell him of the circumstantial evidence that had led a crazed woman to imagine a romance where there had been so much less than friendship. Yet she could not give away Mina's secrets before this throng. Mina was mentally sick, and she had been a great actress once.
Ronald was speaking again. "Why doesn't she like you, Linda?"
Robert answered. "Miss Nevins doesn't care much for my friends or me. Unfortunately, Linda comes in the category of a friend."
The eyes of the two men met, held. And there was nothing, nothing at all that she could say, Linda realized. Ronald must take her on faith, hold her that way, for there was no other basis for marriage.
Ronald's face was stern, as stern as she had seen it a few times in his life. If it was out of protection for her, or some strange anger at fate, she could not tell. She tried to smile at him and slipped her hand in his. His fingers crushed it, as though he wanted to believe, to hold on.
"Oh, my darling. . . ." she said softly, half weeping. "It's so silly!"
She wished in that moment, as the boat sailed southward, that she had explained more about Mina Nevins to Ronald. But all of this had been so unimportant then. Maybe nothing in life was unimportant. Maybe you carried with you everything that happened and life could open the pack and take an inventory any day.
It was Sarah who broke the spell. Linda realized, at the girl's first words, that however unfair she might be in a game of love, she held no sympathy, gave no quarter for foul play in any other field.
"This is a crazy mixup," she said, incline to courtship. A child born on this date will have a very strong, turbulent desire - nature, and be difficult to understand. Self-control should be inculcated early. Artistic ability is probable.
Words of Wisdom
They talk of short-lived pleasures; be it so; pain dies as quickly, and lets her weary prisoner go; the fiercest agonies have short-reign.—Bryant.
Hints on Etiquette
In taking a month's cruise tips should be given at intervals of, say, two weeks, instead of waiting until the end of the voyage, as is usual on transatlantic voyages. A reasonable standard for fortnightly tips would be the amount which would be normally given for the same service on a transatlantic voyage.
Horoscope for Sunday
A busy, active year is ahead of today's birthday children. They will meet with promotion (especially if connected with military affairs), success and popularity. Born today a child will be sociable, kind-hearted, refined, artistic and musical, but occasionally inclined to go off at a tangent. A fair measure of success is predicted for such a one, nevertheless.
One-Minute Test Answers

2. Massachusetts.
3. One—Harding.
A noted scientist says wars are caused by weather. This is hard to believe in view of what happened to a certain gentleman who always carried an umbrella.

"I'm sorry, but I'll have to examine it," said the detective.
"Mina, if you've had a temperamental spell and impressed yourself as an ogress on Linda, tell her you're sorry. I don't think she would suggest that you had planted the ring on her if you hadn't."
Mina Nevins turned, her voice breaking in its fury. "Then you're on her side, too? You let her take the man you want and then defend her? One isn't enough for her! I must have two. How many more, I don't know!"
There was a shocked silence in the lounge. Robert broke it, his voice slow and cold. "This isn't a theater, Mina, and the audience doesn't know the first act. Better do some apologizing and forget the ring."
"The ring has to be found," the detective insisted. "May I ask two of you gentlemen to come with me on a searching party?"
Robert went as one of the group. Ronald stayed at Linda's side. Terry hesitated a minute, then followed the detective.
There were no sounds in the lounge as the group waited. The splashing of the water against the ship came clearly to Linda's ears, and a radio, playing far off in somebody's cabin, sent a thin, sweet river of sound down the room.
The searchers came back. They did not have the ring.
Mina Nevins glanced at Linda in triumph. Linda was not thinking of the ring. She was remembering Ronald's white face when Mina had given her infuriated speech. He had said nothing, but a slow crimson stained his face. Men hated scenes, and he would remember that she was responsible for this one.
"It will be necessary to search every guest," the detective was saying. "The gentlemen will remain here, please, and Miss Markley, will you take the ladies into the dining salon and ask a stewardess to assist you?"
The exodus to the long dining salon had begun when Terry interrupted. His face looked haggard and worried. He spoke to the actress, but his voice carried to the rest of the group.
"You gave me this envelope to keep for you this afternoon, Mina—you said it was important. Hadn't you better take it back now?"
Mina caught her breath. Her eyes widened. For a second all the beauty and grace that could be hers on demand were in her face and body, and Terry stood miserably before her.
Then she extended a white hand. "If it annoys you, of course, I'll take it."
"I'm sorry, but I'll have to examine it," the detective said. "It's mere routine procedure, of course, but I have to examine it."

Also it was a chapter of expert sabotage on the part of the Wheeler, Garner and Farley antis.

Highlight of the entire backstage drama was the pressure put on the President to make his statement via Senator Barkley, that he did not desire a third term. It took a battery of his closest friends, including Harold Ickes, Bob Jackson, Miss Perkins and Justice Frank Murphy to get this.

What they wanted was some statement which would clarify the muddled waters of the convention, and bring the third term issue squarely into the open. Originally, Roosevelt had shied away from making any statement at all, apparently proposing to let the convention have an absolutely free hand to take its own course.

For when Secretary Ickes dropped in to see him a week or so before the convention and said he wanted to lay the groundwork for Chicago, the President said: "Harold, I just don't want to discuss it."

INEXPERIENCED LEADERSHIP

When the convention met, therefore, not a thing had been done by the Roosevelt people to organize their forces. Harry Hopkins, the President's closest friend, but a man who has never even organized a county convention, was the main master mind, with Attorney General Jackson working in the background. Inexperienced and with few acquaintances among the delegates or local and state leaders, they were easy marks for their veteran rivals.

As a result, when the delegates began to drift into Chicago, at least 800 of them already pledged to Roosevelt, they also began to drift to the man whom they knew—James A. Farley. Jim not only knew them, but remembered their first names instantly, and began to wise-crack about "a third term" and Roosevelt.

A delegate doesn't mind being instructed in advance, and obeying instructions. But he does like to be consulted. And when the arriving delegates were not even able to shake hands with the Roosevelt leaders, they began to wonder why they had paid their own good cash to travel all the way from Maine and California, Florida and New Mexico.

JOE GUFFEY'S BAND

The New Dealers didn't even hire a band. There is nothing like a band to pep up a convention, but Garner's Texans were the only ones that thought of it.

Paul McNutt was wise enough to rent a big layout in the Central Hotel, install a Hawaiian orchestra and entertainers and give the folks free entertainment. But the Roosevelt camp didn't get a band until an hour before Barkley's keynote speech, when Senator Joe Guffey and other

Never Thaw Frozen Foods Before Cooking

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

● FROZEN FOODS are being used in ever increasing quantities. In 1937, 273,000,000 pounds of quick frozen foods were shipped, and in 1938, 480,000,000 pounds were estimated. Half of these are vegetables, a quarter chicken and fish, and a little fruit, of which more than half was strawberries. The process makes many more foods available for the average table all over the continent. It affords the consumer fresh material, free from edible waste, and recent studies have shown that such foods preserve their nutritive values.

The germ content of quick-frozen foods is greatly reduced. If the frozen foods are held in storage at temperatures below 32° F. there is little danger of contamination, but on thawing, the organisms increase rapidly. Frozen foods should therefore be cooked without thawing.

A report of Dr. Mary Swartz Rose to the Council on Foods of the American Medical Association states that the cooking of quick-frozen foods presents no special problems. "Practically all products may be put on to cook while still solidly frozen or immediately after partial thawing. Quick-frozen vegetables require only one-half to two-thirds as much time as fresh."

Holds Vitamins

Vitamins are conserved by quick-freezing.

Vitamin A values in foods are conserved by storage at low temperature, out of contact with light, in a practically impervious package, conditions which should prevail in the case of quick-frozen foods until delivery to the consumer. No loss of this vitamin has been observed in samples of peas held in storage for as long as eleven months at 40° F.

Vitamin B (thiamin) is not affected by the freezing process but considerable loss may occur in the blanching of vegetables which have a tendency to lose Vitamin B in cooking. To conserve Vitamin B in quick-frozen vegetables, the blanching time should be as short as is compatible with a product satisfactory in other respects. Little, if any loss of Vitamin G (riboflavin) has been observed in the quick-frozen vegetables investigated, viz.: peas, lima beans, asparagus and spinach.

Vitamin C (ascorbic acid) in fruits appears to be conserved by quick-freezing and storage at low temperatures.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. M.—Is there any cure for sepsis caused by streptococcus germs? What diet is best for a patient with this malady?

Answer—The new drug sulfanilamide is used for streptococcus sepsis. Diet has no action in this condition.

J. V. S.—(1) What is the effect of abscessed tonsils of long duration? (2) How long does the poison from abscessed tonsils remain in the system after removal, or operation?

Answer—Abscessed tonsils have been accused of causing nearly any condition in the body—arthritis, neuritis, ulcer of the stomach, etc. If the tonsils are removed, it usually removes the source of infection, but sometimes the infection gets implanted in a joint, in which case mere removal of the tonsils themselves does not cure the condition.

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:
LINDA AVERY, receptionist at a New York models' agency, starts to rebuild her romance with RONALD STAFFORD, her childhood sweetheart, who has "swung his way to fame on a trumpet." But SARAH MARKLEY, wealthy glamor girl, is trying to capture Ronald for herself. Meanwhile ROBERT BARTON, young engineer, strikes up a friendship with Linda. He introduces her to Terry, and Terry's sweetheart, CAROLINE PICKARD, who has been unable to find work. Life is complicated by MINA NEVINS, a famous actress, who is determined to marry Robert. She believes Linda is romancing with the young engineer.

YESTERDAY: Mina Nevins breaks into the gaiety of the yacht party to announce that an emerald ring is missing—stolen. Linda tells Sarah she believes the ring will be found in her stateroom.

CHAPTER TWENTY

BEDLAM followed Linda's announcement that she thought Mina Nevins' missing emerald ring would be found in her room. The young detective drew her aside.

"What makes you say that? You can't mean you took it?" Linda's green eyes flashed furiously. "Certainly not! But I think Miss Nevins took her own ring and concealed it in my room because she doesn't like me." She kept her voice low so the others could not hear, but the detective, in the excitement, raised his tones. "Why doesn't Miss Nevins like you?"

Mina heard, and her amused, inquiring voice took up the theme. "Not like her? But my dear Mr. Henderson, why should I bother to like or dislike the girl? I don't understand!"

Robert had moved to one side of Linda and Ronald was holding his arm on the other side. Ronald spoke quickly. "If Linda thinks Miss Nevins hid the ring in her cabin she has a reason for it. Why not do a search act, Henderson?" He looked straight into Linda's eyes. "What makes you think that Miss Nevins dislikes you?"

Linda's face did not change. She had no feeling to bring this woman's hatred upon herself. If Ronald loved her, if he was marrying her for better or worse, he must have faith in her. She must not be afraid to tell him of the circumstantial evidence that had led a crazed woman to imagine a romance where there had been so much less than friendship. Yet she could not give away Mina's secrets before this throng. Mina was mentally sick, and she had been a great actress once.

Ronald was speaking again. "Why doesn't she like you, Linda?" Robert answered, "Miss Nevins doesn't care much for my friends or me. Unfortunately, Linda comes in the category of a friend."

The eyes of the two men met. And then, nothing, nothing at all that said anything, Linda realized. Ronald must take her on faith, hold her that way, for there was no other basis for marriage.

Ronald's face was stern, as stern as she had seen it a few times in his life. If it was out of protection for her, or some strange anger at fate, she could not tell. She tried to smile at him and slipped her hand in his. His fingers crushed it, as though he wanted to believe, to hold on.

"Oh, my darling. . . ." she said softly, half weeping. "It's so silly!" She wished in that moment, as the boat sailed southward, that she had explained more about Mina Nevins to Ronald. But all of this had been so unimportant then. Maybe nothing in life was unimportant. Maybe you carried with you everything that happened and life could open the pack and take an inventory any day.

It was Sarah who broke the spell. Linda realized, at the girl's first words, that however unfair she might be in a game of love, she held no sympathy, gave no quarter for foul play in any other field.

"This is a crazy mixup," she said.

"I'm sorry, but I'll have to examine it," said the detective.

"Mina, if you've had a temperamental spell and impressed your own self as an ogress on Linda, tell her you're sorry. I don't think she would suggest that you had planted the ring on her if you hadn't." Mina Nevins turned, her voice breaking in its fury. "Then you're on her side, too? You let her take the man you want and then defend her? One isn't enough for her! She must have two. How many more, I don't know!"

There was a shocked silence in the lounge. Robert broke it, his voice slow and cold. "This isn't a theater, Mina, and the audience doesn't know the first act. Better do some apologizing and forget the ring."

"The ring has to be found," the detective insisted. "May I ask two of you gentlemen to come with me on a searching party?"

Robert went as one of the group. Ronald stayed at Linda's side. Terry hesitated a minute, then followed the detective.

There were no sounds in the lounge as the group waited. The splashing of the water against the ship came clearly to Linda's ears, and a radio, playing far off in somebody's cabin, sent a thin, sweet river of sound down the room.

The searchers came back. They did not have the ring.

Mina Nevins glanced at Linda in triumph. Linda was not thinking of the ring. She was remembering Ronald's white face when Mina had given her infuriated speech. He had said nothing, but a slow crimson stained his face. Men hated scenes, and he would remember that she was responsible for this one.

It will be necessary to search every guest," the detective was saying. "The gentlemen will remain here, please, and Miss Markley, will you take the ladies into the dining salon and ask a stewardess to assist you?"

The exodus to the long dining salon had begun when Terry interrupted. His face looked haggard and worried. He spoke to the actress, but his voice carried to the rest of the group.

"You gave me this envelope to keep for you this afternoon, Mina—you said it was important. Hadn't you better take it back now?"

Mina caught her breath. Her eyes widened. For a second all the beauty and grace that could be demanded were in her face and body, and Terry stood miserably before her.

Then she extended a white hand. "If it annoys you, of course, I'll take it."

"I'm sorry, but I'll have to examine it," the detective said. "It's mere routine procedure, of course, Miss Nevins," as Mina flashed her slow smile at him. "Nothing to worry about. If you have stocks you aren't declaring, you're safe."

"But that's foolish, dear Mr. Henderson! I merely have some letters I wanted kept safely and I have such a habit of mislaying things—" She held to the envelope until the man reached an imperative hand for the packet. Her face was a little paler as she yielded it reluctantly.

"It isn't necessary to read the letters, is it?" she asked. "Certainly not!" The man took the sealed envelope, then raised questioning eyebrows. "Won't you break the seal for me, please?"

Mina tore the envelope swiftly and the detective pulled out some papers. He shook them, examined the envelope. "I'm sorry," he said, returning the material. "Your ring isn't here—but we knew it wouldn't be."

He scanned the faces again. "I beg everyone's pardon, but the search must go on."

Most of the guests laughed about it. A few were indignant. Linda knew that she was the target of curious eyes. She held her head higher and winked back the angry tears.

That ring was somewhere, planted by Mina, she believed. She half expected it to fall from her ruffles. When the search of the ship's quarters revealed nothing, the musicians began to play again.

"Linda, you little goose, what made you pull such a boner?" Ronnie asked affectionately, drawing her aside. His arm was warm and comforting about her. Yet something was wrong. He wasn't an ardent lover. He was more like an indulgent brother. He should be prostrate with tenderness, or furiously angry. He ought to register a pretty good percentage of something important.

"Mina's pretty wrought up about Robert. Terry is somebody on a string whom she uses to make him jealous, only Rob doesn't care, because he loves a girl named Billie Anne."

"He does?" Ronnie interrupted. She thought he sounded a little annoyed. Then he said, "Sarah's being such a grand sport about everything and this has upset her no end."

Sarah—so he was sorry for Sarah. She was glad when it was time to go to her cabin. It had been arranged by the searchers. She sighed a little at the commotion. Then she put both hands to her throat. Without conscious volition she ran across the corridor and began to pound on Robert's door.

Democratic Women Plan Picnic Outing July 27

Catharine Carter,
Of Federation,
To Be Present

Miss Catharine Carter, president of the State Federation of Democratic Women of Ohio, will come to Circleville Saturday, July 27, to appear as guest speaker at a district meeting at Gold Cliff Park, four miles south of Circleville on Route 23.

The Pickaway County Democratic Women's Club, Mrs. Orion King, president, has arranged the district meeting, the plans including a basket picnic with dinner served at 6 p. m.

Many prominent men and women of the party are planning to be present. A similar affair last summer at the same place proved highly successful with an excellent attendance for the program.

All Democratic men and women of the county are invited, as well as club members and families.

Mrs. King has appointed Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker as chairman of the general committee, the other members including Mrs. Hulise Hays, Mrs. John Ward, Mrs. Ray Reid and Miss Emily D. Yates of Circleville; Mrs. Tom Gephart, Williamsport, and Miss Nelle Oesterle of near Ashville.

The committee requests all guests to take table service in addition to the basket dinner.

Merry-Makers' Sewing Club

Forty-one members of the Merry-Makers' Sewing Club of the Order of the Eastern Star, their husbands and guests, gathered Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Valentine, near Stoutsville, and enjoyed a delightful picnic with Mrs. Valentine and Miss Bertha Valentine as hostesses.

The carry-in dinner was served at 6 p. m., after which the guests enjoyed games during the informal social evening.

Plans were made for another picnic on Thursday, August 15, at the home of Mrs. L. E. Foreman, Ashville.

The committee includes Mrs. Foreman, chairman, Mrs. James Borror, Mrs. E. W. Seeds, Mrs. Cecil Noecker, Mrs. Tom Acord, Mrs. Leslie D. May, Mrs. Otto J. Towers, Mrs. R. S. Hosler and Mrs. A. J. Lyle.

Mrs. R. F. Lilly and Mrs. George Foerst were co-chairman for the Friday picnic, the committee being comprised of Mrs. Minnie Heise, Mrs. Valentine, Mrs. Sam Morris, Mrs. E. S. Neuding and Mrs. Fred Moeller.

Engagement Announced

Of interest to the Circleville friends of Mr. Robert H. Scanland, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Scanland, 1377 West First Avenue, Columbus, will be the announcement of his engagement and approaching marriage to Miss Katherine Jane Haddaway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Haddaway, 247 Spencer Road, Webster Groves, Mo.

Mr. Scanland and Miss Haddaway have selected Thursday, August 27 for their wedding, the ceremony to be read in the Presbyterian Church in Webster Groves.

Mr. Scanland, a former student of Ohio State and Ohio Wesleyan universities, and a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity, is known in this community through his work with the Boy Scouts. He is associated with the Central Ohio area, Council of Boy Scouts of America, residing in Lancaster.

Mr. Scanland was formerly an assistant pastor to Dr. Roy A. Burkhart, First Community Church, Columbus.

Miss Haddaway is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University and a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority.

Willing Workers' Class

About 25 members and guests gathered Friday at the home of Miss Ethel Brobst, South Pickaway Street, for the July session of the Willing Workers' Class of the Pontius United Brethren Church.

Miss Hulda Leist, president, led the business meeting which opened with group singing and prayer, and the scripture lesson read from the sixteenth chapter of Proverbs. Mrs. A. W. Bosworth was in charge of the Bible question box.

The program included readings and contests.

Miss Brobst and her mother, Mrs. Daniel Brobst, served lunch at the conclusion of the meeting.

Mrs. M. M. Bowman will be hostess at the next session, Friday, August 16, in her home near Stoutsville.

Business Women's Club

The members of the Business and Professional Women's Club will have a dinner session Thursday, July 25, at the Pickaway Country Club. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m.

Matrons' Circle to Picnic

Mrs. George Bentley of Circleville, chairman of the 1932 Matrons' and Patron's Circle of the district, has extended an invitation to all past matrons and patrons for a picnic Sunday, July 21, at Mount City State Park, Ross County, near the Federal Hospital.

A cooperative dinner will be served at 6 p. m., the guests being requested to take table service.

All 1940 worthy matrons and patrons together with their husbands and wives are invited for the affair, as well as all past matrons and past patrons of the district.

Persons

Miss Eleanor Dreisbach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Dreisbach of Watt Street, left Friday to spend her vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dreisbach and Miss Marie Dreisbach of Midland, Mich.

Mrs. John Mowery and son, Jimmy, of Groveport are vacationing with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Shaw, of near Williamsport.

Today's Menu

WE USUALLY broil or fry halibut steaks, cooking them plain, dipped in flour or cornmeal or in a batter, but stuffed halibut is a nice change for the hearty main dish of a dinner. Don't serve potatoes with this, as a green vegetable and salad are enough unless the family is one which must have its potatoes. There are such, you know.

Today's Menu
Stuffed Halibut Steak
Buttered Beets Perfection Salad
Frozen Custard
Sour Cream Cookies
Coffee, Iced or Hot

Stuffed Halibut Steak
2 thick slices 1 cup sugar halibut steak 1 tablespoon 6 thin slices 1 tablespoon salt pork 1 tablespoon
1 cup fine bread crumbs
Salt, pepper

Remove bones from fish, wash and dry it. Lay one slice on a buttered baking pan. Mix bread crumbs with melted butter, onion, salt and pepper. Lay this dressing on top of the fish and put other slice on top. Cover with salt pork and bake in 375-degree oven 40 minutes. Serve with white sauce containing little chopped parsley.

Perfection Salad
1 tablespoon 1/4 cup sugar
gelatin 1/2 cup finely
1/4 cup cold chopped
water cabbage
1 cup boiling 1 cup finely water cut celery
1/4 cup mild 1 pimento or vinegar green pepper
1 tablespoon 1/2 teaspoon lemon juice salt

Soften gelatin in cold water, add boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved, then add sugar, vinegar, lemon juice and salt. When gelatin is dissolved, strain and when mixture begins to thicken add vegetables. Turn into mold which has first been dipped into cold water, and chill. Cut into slices or blocks and serve on lettuce or endive. Multiply these ingredients by 4 if you want a salad that will serve 25 people. For a delicious fruit salad use a combination of fruits instead of vegetables.

Frozen Custard
1 egg 1 small can (1/2
1/4 cup sugar cup) chilled
3 tablespoons evaporated lemon juice milk or fresh cream
Grated rind of lemon

Beat egg, add sugar. Whip evaporated milk or cream very stiff, fold lemon juice and rind in and add to sugar mixture, folding latter in lightly. Pour at once into cold freezing tray. This makes 1 pint.

Sour Cream Cookies
1 cup butter 2 eggs
2 cups sugar 1/4 teaspoon
1 cup sour 1/2 nutmeg cream or 5 or 6 cups
milk flour to make
1 teaspoon a soft dough
soda

Put butter in mixing bowl one-half hour before you make cookies to warm to room temperature, cream. Add sugar gradually, creaming thoroughly, then add beaten eggs. Sift flour, sift again with baking soda and nutmeg, and add to first mixture alternately with cream. Roll out and bake in 375 degree oven until brown.

I AM giving you two recipes that are a little out of the ordinary and good for summer menus. Both are easy on the budget, too.

Today's Menu

Corn on Cob Tomato Salad
Peppermint Ice Cream Coffee

Novel Salmon Loaf
1 can salmon 1/4 cup cornmeal
2 tsp. melted 1 cup butter-butter milk
2 eggs well 1/2 tsp. baking beaten soda
2 soda crackers Salt and black rolled fine pepper
Shred salmon, discard bones and skin, and combine with other ingredients. Stir soda into butter-milk before adding. Put in buttered baking dish and bake 30 minutes in moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Serve with parsley sauce.

Parsley Sauce
1 tbsp. butter Salt, pepper
1 tbsp. flour 1/2 bunch of 1 cup boiling parsley
water

Melt butter in saucepan, add flour and mix smooth, then gradually add boiling water, stirring constantly. Season with 1/2 teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper, and take from fire. Add parsley cut with kitchen scissors. You can add

AT ANY doubtful stage of the bidding, it will pay you to pause for thought and carefully count out the various suit lengths around the table, as far as they have been indicated, also the location of particular honor cards of importance. Having done that, so far as probabilities can guide you, try to figure out what you expect will be the opening lead against the last bid made. Then try to follow the ensuing play from there on, in your imagination, as far as you can. That may decide you to change the bid.

South ruffed the first heart, led a spade to the A and ruffed the next heart. This had him down to two trumps in each hand, West holding three. After three diamonds, he made West ruff, but another heart took South's fourth trump. He led to the club A, ruffed a club, but later had to lose some more clubs and was badly punished. Of course he could have saved something by letting West have three hearts, then ruffing in dummy.

North should have saved the bacon. The spade rebid showed exactly five and the previous diamond bid therefore more, either six or seven. Hence South had only one or two side cards, probably in clubs. North should have foreseen South getting ruffed in hearts, then West, who had doubled, winning the spade A and leading another heart for a ruff. He could have read that 6-Diamonds would be practically airtight, unless East had one diamond, and then could be set only one by a lead of the A and another spade.

If North had made the correct takeout bid of 6-Diamonds over the double, would East have bid 6-Hearts, which could be made? He said he wouldn't, but that West should have. Maybe he should have, at that, especially after East's cue-bid of the opponents' diamonds.

Democratic Women Plan Picnic Outing July 27

Catharine Carter, Of Federation, To Be Present

Miss Catharine Carter, president of the State Federation of Democratic Women of Ohio, will come to Circleville Saturday, July 27, to appear as guest speaker at a district meeting at Gold Cliff Park, four miles south of Circleville on Route 23.

The Pickaway County Democratic Women's Club, Mrs. Orion King, president, has arranged the district meeting, the plans including a basket picnic with dinner served at 6 p. m.

Many prominent men and women of the party are planning to be present. A similar affair last summer at the same place proved highly successful with an excellent attendance for the program.

All Democratic men and women of the county are invited, as well as club members and families.

Mrs. King has appointed Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker as chairman of the general committee, the other members including Mrs. Hulise Hays, Mrs. John Ward, Mrs. Ray Reid and Miss Emily D. Yates of Circleville; Mrs. Tom Gephart, Williamsport, and Miss Nelle Oesterle of near Ashville.

The committee requests all guests to take table service in addition to their basket dinner.

Merry-Makers' Sewing Club

Forty-one members of the Merry-Makers' Sewing Club of the Order of the Eastern Star, their husbands and guests, gathered Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Valentine, near Stoutsville, and enjoyed a delightful picnic with Mrs. Valentine and Miss Bertha Valentine as hostesses.

The carry-in dinner was served at 6 p. m., after which the guests enjoyed games during the informal social evening.

Plans were made for another picnic on Thursday, August 15, at the home of Mrs. L. E. Foreman, Ashville.

The committee includes Mrs. Foreman, chairman, Mrs. James Borror, Mrs. E. W. Seeds, Mrs. Cecil Noecker, Mrs. Tom Acord, Mrs. Leslie D. May, Mrs. Otto J. Towers, Mrs. R. S. Hosler and Mrs. A. J. Lyle.

Mrs. R. F. Lilly and Mrs. George Foerst were co-chairman for the Friday picnic, the committee being comprised of Mrs. Minnie Heise, Mrs. Valentine, Mrs. Sam Morris, Mrs. E. S. Neuding and Mrs. Fred Moeller.

Engagement Announced

Of interest to the Circleville friends of Mr. Robert H. Scanland, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Scanland, 1377 West First Avenue, Columbus, will be the announcement of his engagement and approaching marriage to Miss Katherine Jane Haddaway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Haddaway, 247 Spencer Road, Webster Groves, Mo. Mr. Scanland and Miss Haddaway have selected Thursday, August 27 for their wedding, the ceremony to be read in the Presbyterian Church in Webster Groves.

Today's Menu

WE USUALLY broil or fry halibut steaks, cooking them plain, dipped in flour or cornmeal or in a batter, but stuffed halibut is a nice change for the hearty main dish of a dinner. Don't serve potatoes with this, as a green vegetable and salad are enough unless the family is one which must have its potatoes. There are such, you know.

Today's Menu
 Stuffed Halibut Steak
 Buttered Beets
 Frozen Custard
 Sour Cream Cookies
 Coffee, Iced or Hot

Stuffed Halibut Steak
 2 thick slices halibut steak
 6 thin slices salt pork
 1 cup fine bread crumbs
 Salt, pepper

Remove bones from fish, wash and dry it. Lay one slice on a buttered baking pan. Mix bread crumbs with melted butter, onion, salt and pepper. Lay this dressing on top of the fish and put other slice on top. Cover with salt pork and bake in 375-degree oven 40 minutes. Serve with white sauce containing little chopped parsley.

Perfection Salad
 1 tablespoon gelatin
 ¼ cup cold water
 1 cup boiling water
 ¼ cup mild vinegar
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 ¼ cup sugar
 ½ cup finely chopped cabbage
 1 cup finely cut celery
 1 pimento or green pepper
 ½ teaspoon salt

Soften gelatin in cold water, add boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved, then add sugar, vinegar, lemon juice and salt. When gelatin is dissolved, strain and when mixture begins to thicken add vegetables. Turn into mold which has first been dipped into cold water, and chill. Cut into slices or blocks and serve on lettuce or endive. Multiply these ingredients by 4 if you want a salad that will serve 25 people. For a delicious fruit salad use a combination of fruits instead of vegetables.

Frozen Custard
 1 egg
 ¼ cup sugar
 3 tablespoons lemon juice
 Grated rind of lemon

1 small can (½ cup) chilled evaporated milk or fresh cream

Beat egg, add sugar. Whip evaporated milk or cream very stiff, fold lemon juice and rind in and add to sugar mixture, folding latter in lightly. Pour at once into cold freezing tray. This makes 1 pint.

Sour Cream Cookies
 1 cup butter
 2 cups sugar
 1 cup sour cream or milk
 1 teaspoon soda

Put butter in mixing bowl one-half hour before you make cookies to warm to room temperature, cream. Add sugar gradually, creaming thoroughly, then add beaten eggs. Sift flour, sift again with baking soda and nutmeg, and add to first mixture alternately with cream. Roll out and bake in 375 degree oven until brown.

Novel Salmon Loaf
 1 can salmon
 2 tbs. melted butter
 2 eggs well beaten
 2 soda crackers salt and black rolled fine
 Shred salmon, discard bones and skin, and combine with other ingredients. Stir soda into butter-milk before adding. Put in buttered baking dish and bake 30 minutes in moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Serve with parsley sauce, which is made as follows:

Parsley Sauce
 1 tbs. butter
 1 tbs. flour
 1 cup boiling water

Melt butter in saucepan, add flour and mix smooth, then gradually add boiling water, stirring constantly. Season with ½ teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper, and take from fire. Add parsley cut with kitchen scissors. You can add

HOLD DOWN WITH WIRE LOOP

New Gooseberry Bushes From Old

New gooseberry bushes can be grown from old by a simple method known as "layering." By this method a branch is rooted without having been separated from the parent bush.

Select a side branch for layering purposes. Bend it over and bury the tip in the soil, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Use bent wire to hold the buried tip in position. Before burying the tip cut away a ring of bark on the part to be placed under guard. Mulch the soil or keep it somewhat moist until new roots form on the "layered" branch.

After two months, when the young roots are formed, the new bush can be cut away from the parent bush and set out in a permanent location. The new bush will require a covering of straw for protection during the first winter.

this festivity there may be much traveling about, and according to an adverse aspect this will be attended by peril, sudden developments or other untoward manifestations. So be prudent, alert and discreet.

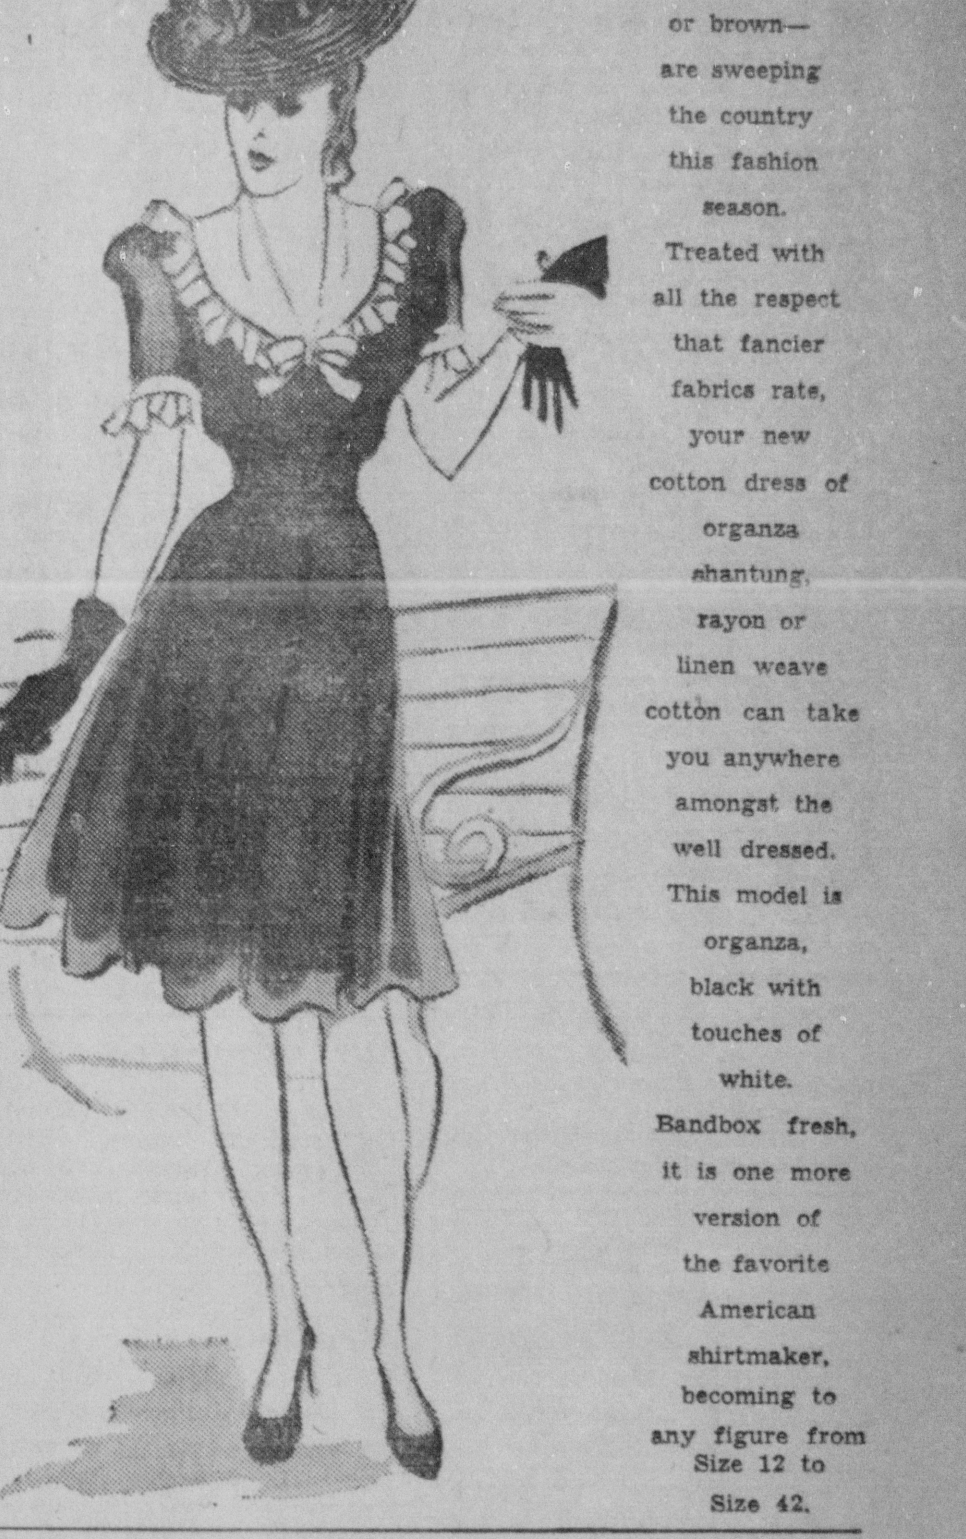

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a pleasant year with happy developments in the domestic, social and affectional life, also in the artistic should the talents and inclinations lie in that channel.

Glorified Shirtmaker

Dark cottons—navy, black or brown—are sweeping the country this fashion season. Treated with all the respect that fancier fabrics rate, your new cotton dress of organza, shantung, rayon or linen weave cotton can take you anywhere amongst the well dressed. This model is organza, black with touches of white. Bandbox fresh, it is one more version of the favorite American shirtmaker, becoming to any figure from Size 12 to Size 42.

1 or 2 tablespoons of vinegar or lemon juice if you prefer a tart sauce.

Peppermint Ice Cream
 16 marshmallows
 ½ lb. pepper-mint stick
 1 cup boiling water
 1 cup milk
 1 pt. whipping cream

Put marshmallows and candy, which has been crushed, into top of double boiler, add boiling water and heat until dissolved; stir in milk and chill thoroughly. Whip cream stiff and fold candy mixture into it. Freeze either in mechanical refrigerator or in hand turned freezer. This will serve 6 to 8 persons.

THE ROLLADE is nice to cook in a Dutch oven, if you have one. If not, cook in heavy frying pan. You won't need much fire to cook this one-meal dish, so it won't heat your kitchen too much.

Stitch 'Em Well 4-H Club

The Stitch 'Em Well 4-H Club met at the home economics cottage, Atlanta, July 17. Thirteen of our 21 members were present. Mary Pearl Orihood and Mary Stevenson both brought visitors. The girls who are in their first year finished their pin cushions and started on their hot pan holders. The second and third year girls are working on their dresses.

Delightful refreshments were enjoyed by the group. We talked about having a tea for our mothers at the last meeting. We also talked about going swimming and taking our lunch for the last meeting in the month which will be July 31.

The next meeting will be held Wednesday, July 24. June Peck, Rosemarie Donahoe and Joan LeValley are on the refreshment committee. Leola Brigner and Jessie Edith Rapp are on the recreation committee.

IDENTITY OF MAN FOUND ALONG SCIOTO MYSTERY

CHILLICOTHE, July 20 — Identity of a man, found unconscious along the Scioto River near the Norfolk and Western Railroad bridge, and who died at Chillicothe Hospital Thursday night, was still undetermined Saturday. Police Chief Russell Poole stated that information furnished by Dayton police, who were called when a social security card bearing the name of Frank Eli Wilcox of Dayton was found with the man, proved erroneous. Chief Poole said, however, that he would ask Dayton authorities to make a thorough investigation to locate someone who might identify Wilcox. Fingerprints of the man were taken and forwarded to Washington, D. C. to check with federal files.

SECOND CHARGE PLACED AGAINST FAST DRIVER

For the second time in less than two weeks, Everett Thompson, 22, South Court Street, has been arrested for reckless operation of a motor vehicle. Patrolman Alva Shasteen, who arrested Thompson at 12:50 a. m. Saturday, reported that he was driving 60 miles an hour on East Main Street. He posted a $20 bond to appear before Mayor William Cady Tuesday. For the same offense July 8, Thompson paid a fine of $10 and costs.

DARBYVILLE

Mrs. Jane Heeter of Circleville is spending a week's vacation here with Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Neff and sons.

Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Hill and son of Ashville were Sunday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Neff and family of Grandview visited with relatives here Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barton and family of Columbus are spending this week with Mrs. Christina Hill.

C. E. Dick and daughter Glendal and Mrs. Marina Renick are spending a few days at Cedar Point.

Miss Dolly May Powell of Columbus returned home after spending a week here with her mother Mrs. Mary Powell.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Pullen and son Larry of Ashville were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Beatty.

GENERAL R. C. Richardson, Jr., pins the wings of a full-fledged U. S. Army pilot on his son, Lieut. R. C. Richardson, III, during graduation exercises at Kelley Field, Texas. In the graduating class were 137 flying cadets and 99 West Point graduates. Lieut. Richardson is a West Pointer, class of 1939.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

Pennsylvania leaders chipped in and made up a purse of $110.

In the end it was a good thing they had the music. For when the convention staged its first demonstration for Roosevelt, the band hired by the hostile National Committee sat with arms folded. The day before they played "Take Me Out to the Ball Game," when Jim Farley came on the platform.

"APPEASEMENT" FOR ISOLATIONISTS

Thus, during the first two days at Chicago, everything happened which, from Roosevelt's viewpoint, shouldn't have happened. Senator Wagner suddenly adopted Chamberlain's appeasement tactics in the Platform Committee and appointed the most unadulterated isolationists in the Senate to draft the war plank. They were Bennett Clark of Missouri, Worth Clark of Idaho, Wheeler of Montana and McCarran of Nevada.

Not even Henry Cabot Lodge in all his glory was a more rabid isolationist than any one of these. Senator Pittman, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was barred from the platform group, and when Breckenridge Long, Assistant Secretary of State, asked to advise with the committee, he was kicked out.

Again, before Speaker Bankhead delivered his keynote speech, Democratic National Committee aides sent for it and said that it was too long for the radio time. So the speech was cut. And for some entirely unexplained reason, the parts which were cut included the only three references to the President by name. That was why, in Bankhead's address, Roosevelt's name was not mentioned.

By this time, the convention was beginning to drift dangerously. Delegates, unconsulted, and with no hands to shake other than Jim Farley's, were getting restless. There was an undercurrent of resentment—not at Roosevelt—but at the uncertainty.

ANTI THIRD-TERM STRATEGY

Meanwhile, Senator Wheeler confided that if the anti could stall the convention along and win a few more delegates, they could make the nomination so unpalatable that the President would refuse to take it. The anti knew they had no chance to win, but they figured that if they could grab 100 votes in addition to the 200 which they already controlled, then one of two things would happen:

1. Roosevelt would not consider the vote a genuine draft, and would refuse to run.
2. If he did run, he would have lost enough prestige, because of the convention bickering, seriously to impair his chances against Mr. Willkie.

It was at this point that the inner circle stepped into the picture with drastic moves. They decided that if something was not done soon it would be too late.

So they besieged the White House by telephone and telegraph. First they urged Roosevelt to come to Chicago. This was refused. Then they wanted him to issue a statement regarding the international crisis this country faces, which made him available if the country drafted him.

In the end they got the no-third-term statement. It wasn't what they wanted, but it did help. It opened the door for a positive drive for the nomination.

Sales In First Part Of Year Go Ahead Of '39 By Four Millions

ROCK ISLE PLANT OPENS

Payment Of Shareholders Goes Up Abruptly, Paepke Reports

Business of the Container Corporation of America, which operates one of Circleville's biggest industries, has shown a steady increase during the last six months, according to a statement issued Saturday from the Chicago office of Walter Paepke, corporation president.

Sales in the first six months were $14,485,000 compared with $10,444,000 for the first half of 1939, or an increase of 38.69 percent. This increase results from both larger unit volume and higher price levels, the report declared. Orders booked during the first half of July continue substantially ahead of a year ago.

For the 12 month period ending June 30 the company's net earnings totaled $2,545,386, $3.26 a share, compared with $1,817,970 or 23 cents a share for the previous 12 month period.

New Plant Opened
Operation of a new factory has boosted the company's business, Mr. Paepke's report discloses. A new corrugated box factory at Rock Island, Ill., began operations in March and since then had gradually been increasing its rate of shipments. The new corrugated box and folding carton operation at Fort Worth, Texas, is receiving and installing machinery at the present time and should be ready to begin operations in about six weeks.

All other box factories, paper mills and pulp mills are operating at a satisfactory rate, the report shows.

Figures from the various branches of the Container Corporation, including the one in Circleville, are not reported, a blanket report covering all operations. However, business in the Circleville plant has been excellent, with the plant operating 24 hours seven days a week except at times when repairs have been necessary.

The Corporation has spent much money in modernizing its Circleville plant in the last several years.

Press Coldly Hostile After Fuehrer Tells Empire To Quit Or Be Destroyed

Friday when a flight of seventy German bombers, attempting to attack shipping convoys in a harbor, were attacked by six British Hurricane fighters.

In the second engagement nine Hurricanes engaged fifty German planes which raided shipping in a southcoast harbor.

In both engagements the famous British Spitfire fighters aided the Hurricanes in driving the Germans away, it was stated.

Meanwhile Britain's defense troops had a new commander-in-chief, General Alan Francis Brooke, chosen to replace veteran General Sir Edmund Ironside who was "promoted" to field marshal with no specific command.

Gort Has Vital Job
General Viscount Gort, former commander-in-chief of the British Expeditionary Force in France, was named inspector general of the home forces.

Appointment of Lieut. Gen. C. J. E. Auchinleck, commander of the British landing parties at Narvik (Norway) was named commander of the armies in southern England.

Although replaced by younger men, Field Marshal Ironside remains on the army's active list to be available in any capacity in which he may be needed.

Gort's appointment to head the home forces emphasized the necessity of training under conditions similar to those at Dunkerque, it was pointed out. Gort led what was hailed as the brilliant British retreat from that French channel port.

CAIRO, July 20—An official Royal Air Force communique today stated:

"The R.A.F. successfully bombed Neghelli and Elgubbi and raided shipping in Tobruk Harbor.

"The Italians raided Mersam-truh. One enemy plane was shot down."

"The R.A.F. also raided Agordat and Macaca, scoring numerous direct hits and causing fires. "All British planes returned safely."

ROME, July 20—Claims that the Italian cruiser Bartolomeo Colleoni "inflicted heavy damage" on British warcraft before being sunk in the Mediterranean were made today in an official military bulletin which reported:

"Yesterday off Crete there was a 3-hour combat, our light cruisers Giovanni Delle Bande Nere and Bartolomeo Colleoni against two English cruisers of the Sydney type and four destroyers.

"Despite the inferiority of tonnage, our craft inflicted heavy damage on the enemy.

"The Bartolomeo Colleoni was hit and sunk. A large part of her crew was saved.

"Our bombing formations repeatedly reached and damaged the enemy, whereof one ship sank in flames."

(The Bartolomeo Colleoni, 5,069 tons and considered the fastest cruiser in the world, was sunk by the 6,830-ton Australian cruiser, Sydney, London reported. After the sinking a second Italian cruiser withdrew from the engagement, the British Admiralty claimed, and an English destroyer picked up 250 survivors from the Bartolomeo Colleoni. The British made no mention of having lost a ship in the fight.)

BERLIN, July 20—Destruction of 27 British planes by German fighters and anti-aircraft batteries was claimed today in an official communique issued by the Nazi high command.

Twenty-one of these were shot down in air battles over the English Channel yesterday, it was stated, and one other was brought down by naval anti-aircraft fire. The remainder were shot down either by fighter planes or anti-aircraft guns over Germany during last night.

Successful German attacks on important military objectives in England and Scotland, and further sinkings of British shipping by planes and submarines also was reported in the official statement which said:

"One of our submarines reports sinking 24,700 tons of enemy merchant shipping.

"Air force units bombed power plants, warehouses, piers, docks, supply stores, anti-aircraft positions and air bases in South England and Scotland with good success.

"Further attacks directed against warships and merchantmen off the British south coast resulted in the sinking of a 5,000-ton merchant vessel by a direct hit. Further merchantmen and one destroyer were considerably damaged.

"As announced before, Messerschmitts shot down fifteen British pursuit planes—including 12 fighters, 2 spitfires and 1 hurricane—during air battles over the channel, without any German losses.

"Six more spitfires have been shot down during the day, bringing the total of British pursuer losses to twenty-one.

"Naval anti-aircraft guns shot down one British plane.

"Last night the Royal Air Force again dropped bombs in northern and western Germany. Several civilians were injured."

TWO AUTOS COLLIDE

The automobiles of Loren H. Simmons, Columbus and James Thorne, North Court Street, collided on the Darbyville road three-quarters of a mile south of Darbyville Friday afternoon. Damage to the left side of the Simmons car and the left front wheel of the Thorne car was reported by Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver. Simmons was traveling south and Thorne north when the accident happened.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES,
O. S. U. floriculturist

QUESTION: What globe flower (Trollius) is in bloom now?

ANSWER: Although the most of the varieties of globe flowers bloom much earlier, there is one variety much later which usually is in full bloom in late June in most parts of Ohio. It really should be grown in more gardens. It is Trollius ledebouri, a rich orange-color, growing about two to two and a half feet high.

QUESTION: What double varieties of mockorange (Philadelphus) would you recommend?

ANSWER: The semi-double Virginal is the most commonly grown, although the variety Argentine is preferable. For a lower growing variety Bouquet Blanc, growing 4 to 5 feet high, may be used.

QUESTION: What is the difference between Polyantha and Floribunda roses?

ANSWER: The classification Floribunda roses is simply a new classification into which has been put the larger flowering Polyantha and a few of the smaller flowered hybrid teas. Incidentally, you will find this group of roses extremely satisfactory for profuse bloom throughout the season.

QUESTION: What can you tell me about the Japanese spurge?

ANSWER: The Japanese spurge or Pachysandra is one of our finest evergreen ground covers for shaded locations. It grows from 6 to 7 inches high with a light green leaf about three-fourths to one and a half inches long. If planted in the sun, the foliage is inclined to scorch during the summer. If given a good soil and a normal amount of moisture, it soon makes solid mats of year around beauty.

QUESTION: Can the double pyrethrum be grown from seed?

ANSWER: Although it is possible to buy seed of double pyrethrum from which you will secure some doubles and a greater number of singles, you will find by far the most satisfactory way to secure these plants is to buy named double varieties. This would include such varieties as Buckeye, Miami Queen, Princess Margaret, Trojan, Delicatissima, and Rose Glory.

QUESTION: I have a sunny bank about six feet high and 75 feet long that has just been left in front of my house by the lowering of the highway. What can I grow on this bank and how long will it take to cover it? Would myrtle be satisfactory? There is some growing in the neighborhood orchard that I can have for the digging.

ANSWER: Yes, the myrtle, or more properly called periwinkle, would be perfectly satisfactory for this situation. I would plant small pieces a couple of inches square with runners about one foot apart each way on the bank. My observations have been that if you will mulch the bank with some rotted straw, peat moss or rotted leaves, it will not only tend to conserve the moisture but will enable the periwinkle runners to root as they grow and give you much quicker coverage than otherwise.

QUESTION: Are the new so-called dooryard roses really hardy?

ANSWER: The dooryard roses developed by Mr. Horvath of Mentor and listed by many of the rose growers, are completely hardy and extremely free flowering. Although the individual blooms do not equal the beauty of a hybrid tea, their hardiness and quantity of bloom make up for this lack.

QUESTION: I would like to know what to do for roses that look white. The leaves dry up. Also what makes 'hardy' drop tops dry and wilt, and when should I plant Oriental poppy seeds; also how to plant them.

ANSWER: The mildew on your roses can be prevented by dusting or spraying once a week and after each rain with some fungicide such as sulphur. The tips of your phlox are being injured by the phlox bug. I find it most impossible to do anything for it since the only way you can kill them is to hit them directly with the spray or dust of pyrethrum or rotenone, and somehow or other they are never there when you are applying it. If you will simply pinch out an inch or two of the phlox that is wilted you will find it will send up a new top and will bloom a week or so later than usual.

Oriental poppy seeds may be sown during August and preferably kept in coldframes over winter. Since the seeds are very fine, they should have only one-eighth inch sandy soil or peat moss sifted over the top of them.

QUESTION: Last fall I had 12 dozen large tulip bulbs given to me which have given me most beautiful flowers this spring. I would like to know how to care for them so that I will have nice flowers next year. We are bothered with moles and I am wondering if they will damage the bulbs if left in the ground all summer.

ANSWER: Since either moles or mice that follow their runs may injure your tulips, I suggest that you apply 10 pounds of arsenate of lead per 1,000 square feet of soil surface. This should keep the moles entirely away from this area. You will probably find it easier to apply the poison if you will mix a half pound in a couple gallons of water and apauthority to call out the National Guard.

3. A compulsory military training bill.

4. An excess profits tax.

5. The Walter-Logan bill to give federal courts more authority over quasi-judicial federal agencies such as the National Labor Relations Board.

6. The house - approved Smith measure curbing powers of the NLRB.

Biggest fight was expected to develop over the President's request for power to mobilize the National Guard. Critics of Mr. Mr. Roosevelt, growing more bitter because of the third term issue, were expected to denounce the request as an attempt by the chief executive to "grab" powers belonging to the states.

However, it was generally agreed that there was need to call out the guard to help train those called into service under an impending compulsory military training bill. As a result, debate over it will center on personal attacks on the President rather than merits of the step.

It also was generally believed that some sort of a compulsory military training program would be enacted as the movement has gained widespread support. The army has made plans, subject to congressional approval, to call out 1,300,000 for training by October, 1941.

Operation of a new factory has boosted the company's business, Mr. Paepke's report discloses. A new corrugated box factory at Rock Island, Ill., began operations in March and since then has gradually been increasing its rate of shipments. The new corrugated box and folding carton operation at Fort Worth, Texas, is receiving and installing machinery at the present time and should be ready to begin operations in about six weeks.

All other box factories, paper mills and pulp mills are operating at a satisfactory rate, the report shows.

Figures from the various branches of the Container Corporation, including the one in Circleville, are not reported, a blanket report covering all operations. However, business in the Circleville plant has been excellent, with the plant operating 24 hours seven days a week except at times when repairs have been necessary.

The Corporation has spent much money in modernizing its Circleville plant in the last several years.

Press Coldly Hostile After Fuehrer Tells Empire To Quit Or Be Destroyed

Friday when a flight of seventy German bombers, attempting to attack shipping convoys in a harbor, were attacked by six British Hurricane fighters.

In the second engagement nine Hurricanes engaged fifty German planes which raised shipping in a southeast harbor.

In both engagements the famous British Spitfire fighters aided the Hurricanes in driving the Germans away, it was stated.

Meanwhile Britain's defense troops had a new commander-in-chief, General Alan Francis Brooke, chosen to replace veteran General Sir Edmund Ironside who was "promoted" to field marshal with no specific command.

Gort Has Vital Job

General Viscount Gort, former commander-in-chief of the British Expeditionary Force in France, was named inspector general of the home forces.

Appointment of Lieut. Gen. C. J. E. Auchinleck, commander of the British landing parties at Narvik (Norway) was named commander of the armies in southern England.

Although replaced by younger men, Field Marshal Ironside remains on the army's active list to be available in any capacity in which he may be needed.

Gort's appointment to head the home forces emphasized the necessity of training under conditions similar to those at Dunkerque, it was pointed out. Gort led what was hailed as the brilliant British retreat from that French channel port.

CAIRO, July 20—An official Royal Air Force communique today stated:

"The R.A.F. successfully bombed Neghell and Elgubbi and raided shipping in Tobruk Harbor.

"The Italians raided Mersamtruh. One enemy plane was shot down."

"The R.A.F. also raided Agordat and Macaca, scoring numerous direct hits and causing fires.

"All British planes returned safely."

ROME, July 20—Claims that the Italian cruiser Bartolomeo Colleoni "inflicted heavy damage" on British warcraft before being sunk in the Mediterranean were made today in an official military bulletin which reported:

"Yesterday off Crete there was a 3-hour combat, our high cruisers Giovanni Delle Bande Nere and Bartolomeo Colleoni against two English cruisers of the Sydney type and four destroyers.

"Despite the inferiority of tonnage, our craft inflicted heavy damage on the enemy.

"The Bartolomeo Colleoni was hit and sunk. A large part of her crew was saved.

"Our bombing formations repeatedly reached and damaged the enemy, whereof one ship sank in flames."

(The Bartolomeo Colleoni, 5,069 tons and considered the fastest cruiser in the world, was sunk by the 6,830-ton Australian cruiser, Sydney, London reported. After the sinking a second Italian cruiser withdrew from the engagement, the British Admiralty claimed, and an English destroyer picked up 250 survivors from the Bartolomeo Colleoni. The British made no mention of having lost a ship in the fight.)

BERLIN, July 20—Destruction of 27 British planes by German fighters and anti-aircraft batteries was claimed today in an official communique issued by the Nazi high command.

Twenty-one of these were shot down in air battles over the English Channel yesterday, it was stated, and one other was brought down by naval anti-aircraft fire. The remainder were shot down either by fighter planes or anti-aircraft guns over Germany during last night.

Successful German attacks on important military objectives in England and Scotland, and further sinkings of British shipping by planes and submarines also was reported in the official statement which said:

"One of our submarines reports sinking 24,700 tons of enemy merchant shipping.

"Air force units bombed power plants, warehouses, piers, docks, supply stores, anti-aircraft positions and air bases in South England and Scotland with good success.

"Further attacks directed against warships and merchantmen off the British south coast resulted in the sinking of a 5,000-ton merchant vessel by a direct hit. Further merchantmen and one destroyer were considerably damaged.

"As announced before, Messerschmitts shot down fifteen British pursuit planes—including 12 fighters, 2 spitfires and 1 hurricane—during air battles over the channel, without any German losses.

"Six more spitfires have been shot down during the day, bringing the total of British pursuer losses to twenty-one.

"Naval anti-aircraft guns shot down one British plane.

"Last night the Royal Air Force again dropped bombs in northern and western Germany. Several civilians were injured."

TWO AUTOS COLLIDE

The automobiles of Loren H. Simmons, Columbus and James Thorne, North Court Street, collided on the Darbyville road three-quarters of a mile south of Darbyville Friday afternoon. Damage to the left side of the Simmons car and the left front wheel of the Thorne car was reported by Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver. Simmons was traveling south and Thorne north when the accident happened.

V. F. W. PLANS PICNIC

All members of the Circleville post No. 3331, Veterans of Foreign Wars, are expecting to attend a third district picnic Sunday, July 28, at Springfield.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES, O. S. U. floriculturist

QUESTION: What globe flower (Trollius) is in bloom now?

ANSWER: Although the most of the varieties of globe flowers bloom much earlier, there is one variety much later which usually is in full bloom in late June in most parts of Ohio. It really should be grown in more gardens. It is Trollius ledebouri, a rich orange-color, growing about two to two and a half feet high.

QUESTION: What double varieties of mockorange (Philadelphus) would you recommend?

ANSWER: The semi-double Virginal is the most commonly grown, although the variety Argentine is preferable. For a lower growing variety Bouquet Blanc, growing 4 to 5 feet high, may be used.

QUESTION: What is the difference between Polyantha and Floribunda roses?

ANSWER: The classification Floribunda roses is simply a new classification into which has been put the larger flowering Polyantha and a few of the smaller flowered hybrid teas. Incidentally, you will find this group of roses extremely satisfactory for profuse bloom throughout the season.

QUESTION: What can you tell me about the Japanese spurge?

ANSWER: The Japanese spurge or Pachysandra is one of our finest evergreen ground covers for shaded locations. It grows from 6 to 7 inches high with a light green leaf about three-fourths to one and a half inches long. If planted in the sun, the foliage is inclined to scorch during the summer. If given a good soil and a normal amount of moisture, it soon makes solid mats of year around beauty.

QUESTION: Can the double pyrethrum be grown from seed?

ANSWER: Although it is possible to buy seed of double pyrethrum from which you will secure some doubles and a greater number of singles, you will find by far the most satisfactory way to secure these plants is to buy named double varieties. This would include such varieties as Buckeye, Miami Queen, Princess Margaret, Trojan, Delicatissima, and Rose Glory.

QUESTION: I have a sunny bank about six feet high and 75 feet long that has just been left in front of my house by the lowering of the highway. What can I grow on this bank and how long will it take to cover it? Would myrtle be satisfactory? There is some growing in the neighborhood orchard that I can have for the digging.

ANSWER: Yes, the myrtle, or more properly called periwinkle, would be perfectly satisfactory for this situation. I would plant small pieces a couple of inches square with runners about one foot apart each way on the bank. My observations have been that if you will mulch the bank with some rotted straw, peat moss or rotted leaves, it will not only tend to conserve the moisture but will enable the periwinkle runners to root as they grow and give you much quicker coverage than otherwise.

QUESTION: Are the new so-called dooryard roses really hardy?

ANSWER: The dooryard roses developed by Mr. Horvath of Mentor and listed by many of the rose growers, are completely hardy and extremely free flowering. Although the individual blooms do not equal the beauty of a hybrid tea, their hardiness and quantity of bloom make up for this lack.

QUESTION: I would like to know what to do for roses that look white. The leaves dry up. Also what makes 'hardy phlox' tops dry and wilt, and when should I plant Oriental poppy seeds; also how to plant them.

ANSWER: The mildew on your roses can be prevented by dusting or spraying once a week and after each rain with some fungicide such as sulphur. The tips of your phlox are being injured by the phlox bug. I find it most impossible to do anything for it since the only way you can kill them is to hit them directly with the spray or dust of pyrethrum or rotenone, and somehow or other they are never there when you are applying it. If you will simply pinch out an inch or two of the phlox that is wilted you will find it will send up a new top and will bloom a week or so later than usual.

Oriental poppy seeds may be sown during August and preferably kept in coldframes over winter. Since the seeds are very fine, they should have only one-eighth inch sandy soil or peat moss sifted over the top of them.

QUESTION: Last fall I had 12 dozen large tulip bulbs given to me which have given me most beautiful flowers this spring. I would like to know how to care for them so that I will have nice flowers next year. We are bothered with moles and I am wondering if they will damage the bulbs if left in the ground all summer.

ANSWER: Since either moles or mice that follow their runs may injure your tulips, I suggest that you apply 10 pounds of arsenate of lead per 1,000 square feet of soil surface. This should keep the moles entirely away from this area. You will probably find it easier to apply the poison if you will mix a half pound in a couple gallons of water and apply it with a watering can.

QUESTION: I have just planted a new rose bed this year and would like to know how soon I should start treating them for the control of the various diseases.

ANSWER: You should start immediately. With the amount of rain we have had, both mildew and black spot diseases will very likely be unusually bad. I start dusting my roses as soon as the new growth starts each spring and dust them once a week and as far as possible after each rain. I prefer dusting to spraying since the dust gun is always loaded and ready for use whereas it is rather a nuisance to stop and mix spray material every time I want to apply it. Although I mix my own dust of nine parts dusting sulfur, one part arsenate of lead, and two parts rotenone dust, you will be able to buy this mixture under various trade names.

QUESTION: Is the Prairie gentian (Eustoma) hardy in Ohio?

ANSWER: Those who have traveled through Texas and admired the gorgeous purple flower of the Prairie gentian probably have wished to try it here in their Ohio gardens. Easily grown from seed, it should be started fairly early indoors. It gives a mass of bloom throughout the summer. So far as I know it will not ordinarily live over winter. However, several gardeners that I know of have dug it up in the fall, put it in pots or tubs as they would Fuschia or geraniums, and kept them in the cellar over winter, giving them just enough water to keep them from shriveling.

QUESTION: In the fall of 1938 I moved a 2 1/2-inch red oak into my yard, refilling the hole with good top soil. The subsoil is practically impervious to water and the drainage from the hole would be very bad. Would this be causing the gradual dying of the tree?

ANSWER: You will find that most plants resent poor drainage and this is especially true of trees. May I suggest before you plant another tree that you put in a line of farm drain tile through the bottom of the hole to carry the water off to a lower part of the yard or to another drain.

Do not forget the sale of the late C. W. Neff property — 250 acre farm in Jackson Township, and the "Home" corner of South Court Street and Corwin Street. See special advertisement in yesterday's daily or Monday, July 22.

SIX PROBLEMS BEFORE SOLONS

Congressmen Hint Closer Scrutiny Probable For F. D. Bills

authority to call out the National Guard.

3. A compulsory military training bill.

4. An excess profits tax.

5. The Walter-Logan bill to give federal courts more authority over quasi-judicial federal agencies such as the National Labor Relations Board.

6. The house - approved Smith measure curbing powers of the NLRB.

Biggest fight was expected to develop over the President's request for power to mobilize the National Guard. Critics of Mr. Mr. Roosevelt, growing more bitter because of the third term issue, were expected to denounce the request as an attempt by the chief executive to "grab" powers belonging to the states.

However, it was generally agreed that there was need to call out the guard to help train those called into service under an impending compulsory military training bill. As a result, debate over it will center on personal attacks on the President rather than merits of the step.

It also was generally believed that some sort of a compulsory military training program would be enacted as the movement has gained widespread support. The army has made plans, subject to congressional approval, to call out 1,300,000 for training by October, 1941.
